Introduction

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency's (OCC) Comptroller's Handbook booklet, "Electronic Fund Transfer Act," provides guidance, background information, and optional expanded examination procedures for Regulation E (12 CFR 1005), the consumer protection regulation that implements the Electronic Fund Transfer Act of 1978 (EFTA) (15 USC 1693). EFTA is intended to protect individual consumers who engage in electronic fund transfers (EFT). Regulation E includes official commentary. Throughout this booklet, national banks and federal savings associations are referred to collectively as financial institutions or banks, except when it is necessary to distinguish between the two.

Because this booklet summarizes the EFTA's and Regulation E's requirements, users of this booklet should refer to the regulation and its official commentary for detailed guidance and specific requirements.

After completing a compliance risk assessment, bank examiners should review the applicable examination procedures. For guidance in completing a core assessment, refer to the "Community Bank Supervision," "Large Bank Supervision," and "Federal Branches and Agencies Supervision" booklets in the Comptroller's Handbook. Complaint information received by the Customer Assistance Group in the Office of the Ombudsman and by the bank may also be useful in completing the assessment.

Background and Summary

EFTA is intended to protect individual consumers engaging in EFTs, which include

- transfers through automated teller machines (ATM),
- point-of-sale (POS) terminals,
- automated clearinghouse (ACH) systems,
- telephone bill-payment plans in which periodic or recurring transfers are contemplated,
- remote banking programs, and
- remittance transfers.

The EFTA is implemented through Regulation E, which includes official interpretations.

In 2009, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (FRB) amended Regulation E to prohibit institutions from charging overdraft fees for ATM and one-time debit card transactions, unless the consumer opts in or affirmatively consents to the institution's overdraft services (74 Fed. Reg. 59033 (November 17, 2009) and 75 Fed. Reg. 31665 (June 4, 2010)). The FRB also amended Regulation E to restrict fees and expiration dates on gift cards and to require that gift card terms be stated clearly (75 Fed. Reg. 16580 (April 1, 2010)).¹

¹ The FRB also implemented a legislative extension of time for complying with the gift card disclosure requirements until January 31, 2011. 75 Fed. Reg. 50683 (August 17, 2010).

The Dodd–Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (Dodd–Frank) transferred rulemaking authority under the EFTA from the FRB to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB).^{2,3} Dodd–Frank also amended the EFTA and created a new system of consumer protections for remittance transfers sent by consumers in the United States to individuals and businesses in foreign countries. In December 2011, the CFPB restated the FRB’s implementing Regulation E at 12 CFR 1005 (76 Fed. Reg. 81020 (December 27, 2011)).

In February 2012, the CFPB added subpart B (“Requirements for Remittance Transfers”) to Regulation E to implement the new remittance protections set forth in Dodd–Frank (77 Fed. Reg. 6194 (February 7, 2012)), effective on February 7, 2013. In July 2012, the CFPB amended the February 2012 rule to effect certain technical corrections primarily related to formatting of the model forms in the rule. In August 2012, the CFPB again amended the February 2012 rule to modify the definition of “remittance transfer provider.” The August amendment also revised several aspects of the rule regarding remittance transfers that are scheduled before the date of transfer, including preauthorized remittance transfers (77 Fed. Reg. 50244 (August 20, 2012)). In January 2013, the rule’s February 7, 2013, effective date was delayed pending finalization of a proposal to address three specific issues in the rule. In May 2013, the CFPB finalized that proposal, which modified the disclosure requirements for certain fees and foreign taxes, revised some aspects of the error resolution requirements, and established a new effective date of October 28, 2013 (78 Fed. Reg. 30661 (May 22, 2013)).

Information in this narrative is provided for 12 CFR 1005, subpart A and 12 CFR 1005, subpart B in the order listed below. Note that the order of the narrative, particularly as it relates to subpart A, does not strictly follow the order of the regulatory text. For ease of use by the examiner, however, the worksheet follows the order of the regulation.

² Dodd–Frank 1002(12)(C), 1024(b)-(c), and 1025(b)-(c); 12 USC 5481(12)(C), 5514(b)-(c), and 5515(b)-(c). Section 1029 of Dodd–Frank generally excludes from this transfer of authority, subject to certain exceptions, any rulemaking authority over a motor vehicle dealer that is predominantly engaged in the sale and servicing of motor vehicles, the leasing and servicing of motor vehicles, or both. The transfer of authority also does not include section 920 of EFTA, which concerns debit card interchange fees charged to merchants. Section 920 of EFTA is implemented by FRB regulations at section part 235. Section 920 is not addressed here or in the accompanying examination procedures and worksheet.

Subpart A

“General”

- Scope and Key Definitions (12 CFR 1005.2, 1005.3, 1005.17, 1005.20)
- Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.4, 1005.7, 1005.8, 1005.16, 1005.17, 1005.20)
- Electronic Transaction Overdraft Service Opt In (12 CFR 1005.17)
- Issuance of Access Devices (12 CFR 1005.5, 1005.18)
- Consumer Liability and Error Resolution (12 CFR 1005.6, 1005.11)
- Receipts and Periodic Statements (12 CFR 1005.9, 1005.18)
- Gift Cards (12 CFR 1005.20)
- Other Requirements (12 CFR 1005.10, 1005.14, 1005.15)
- Relation to Other Laws (12 CFR 1005.12)

Subpart B

“Requirements for Remittance Transfers”

- Remittance Transfer Definitions (12 CFR 1005.30)
- Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31)
- Estimates (12 CFR 1005.32)
- Procedures for Resolving Errors (12 CFR 1005.33)
- Procedures for Cancellation and Refund of Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.34)
- Acts of Agents (12 CFR 1005.35)
- Transfers Scheduled Before the Date of Transfer (12 CFR 1005.36)

Sections Applicable to Both Subpart A and Subpart B

- Preemption
- Administrative Enforcement and Record Retention (12 CFR 1005.13)
- Miscellaneous (EFTA Provisions Not Reflected in Regulation E)

Subpart A—General

Scope

Key Definitions (12 CFR 1005.2)

Access device is a card, code, or other means of access to a consumer’s account or a combination of these used by the consumer to initiate EFTs. Access devices include debit cards, personal identification numbers (PIN), telephone transfer and telephone bill payment codes, and other means to initiate EFTs to or from a consumer account (12 CFR 1005.2(a)(1) and staff commentary 1005.2(a)–1).

Access devices do not include either of the following:

- Magnetic tape or other devices used internally by a financial institution to initiate EFTs.
- A check or draft used to capture the magnetic ink character recognition (MICR) encoding or routing, account, and serial numbers to initiate a one-time ACH debit (staff commentaries 1005.2(a)–1 and –2).

Accepted access device is an access device that a consumer

- requests and receives, signs, or uses (or authorizes another to use) to transfer money between accounts or to obtain money, property, or services.
- requests to be validated even if it was issued on an unsolicited basis.
- receives as a renewal or substitute for an accepted access device from either the financial institution that initially issued the device or a successor (12 CFR 1005.2(a)(2)).

Account includes the following:

- Checking, savings, or other consumer asset account held by a financial institution (directly or indirectly), including certain club accounts, established primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.
- Payroll card account, which is an account established through an employer (directly or indirectly), to which EFTs of the consumer's wages, salary, or other employee compensation (such as commissions), are made on a recurring basis. The payroll card account can be operated or managed by the employer, a third-party processor, a depository institution, or any other person. All transactions involving the transfer of funds to or from a payroll card account are covered by the regulation (12 CFR 1005.2(b)(2) and staff commentary 1005.2(b)–2).

An account does not include

- an account held by a financial institution under a bona fide trust agreement.
- an occasional or incidental credit balance in a credit plan.
- profit-sharing and pension accounts established under a bona fide trust agreement.
- escrow accounts, such as for payments of real estate taxes, insurance premiums, or completion of repairs.
- accounts for purchasing U.S. savings bonds (12 CFR 1005.2(b)(3) and staff commentary 1005.2(b)–3).

A payroll card account does not include a card used

- solely to disburse incentive-based payments (other than commissions representing the primary means through which a consumer is paid) that are unlikely to be a consumer's primary source of salary or other compensation.
- solely to make disbursements unrelated to compensation, such as petty cash reimbursements or travel per diem payments.

- in isolated instances, such as when an employer does not make recurring payments (staff commentary 1005.2(b)–2).

Activity, with respect to a gift certificate or gift card, means any action that results in an increase or decrease of funds underlying a gift certificate or gift card, other than the imposition of a fee or an adjustment due to an error or a reversal of a prior transaction (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(7)).

ATM operator is any person who operates an ATM at which a consumer initiates an EFT or a balance inquiry and who does not hold the account to or from where the transfer is made or about which the inquiry is made (12 CFR 1005.16(a)).

Dormancy fee and inactivity fee are fees for non-use of or inactivity on a gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(5)).

Electronic check conversion (ECK) transactions are transactions in which a check, draft, or similar paper instrument is used as a source of information to initiate a one-time EFT from a consumer’s account. The consumer must authorize the transfer (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(2)).

Electronic fund transfer is a transfer of funds initiated through an electronic terminal, telephone, computer (including online banking) or magnetic tape for the purpose of ordering, instructing, or authorizing a financial institution to debit or credit a consumer’s account. EFTs include, but are not limited to, POS transfers, ATM transfers, direct deposits or withdrawals of funds, transfers initiated by telephone, and transfers resulting from debit card transactions, whether or not initiated through an electronic terminal (12 CFR 1005.3(b)).

Electronic terminal is an electronic device, other than a telephone call by a consumer, through which a consumer may initiate an EFT. The term includes, but is not limited to, POS terminals, ATMs, and cash-dispensing machines (12 CFR 1005.2(h)).

Exclusions from gift card definition include the following cards, codes, or other devices, which are not subject to the substantive restrictions on imposing dormancy, inactivity, or service fees or the restrictions on expiration dates, if they are (12 CFR 1005.20(b))

- usable solely for telephone services.
- reloadable and not marketed or labeled as a gift card or gift certificate. For purposes of this exception, the term “reloadable” includes a temporary non-reloadable card issued solely in connection with a reloadable card, code, or other device.
- a loyalty, award, or promotional gift card (except that these must disclose on the card or device itself such information as the date the funds expire, fee information, and a toll-free number) (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(4) and (c)(4)).
- not marketed to the general public.
- issued in paper form only.
- redeemable solely for admission to events or venues at a particular location or group of affiliated locations or to obtain goods or services in conjunction with admission to such events or venues, at the event or venue or at specific locations affiliated with and in geographic proximity to the event or venue.

General-use prepaid card is a card, code, or other device

- issued on a prepaid basis primarily for personal, family, or household purposes to a consumer in a specified amount, whether or not that amount may be increased or reloaded, in exchange for payment.
- that is redeemable upon presentation at multiple, unaffiliated merchants for goods or services or that may be usable at ATMs (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(3)). See “Exclusions from gift card definition,” above.

Gift certificate is a card, code, or other device issued on a prepaid basis primarily for personal, family, or household purposes to a consumer in a specified amount that may not be increased or reloaded in exchange for payment and redeemable upon presentation at a single merchant or an affiliated group of merchants for goods or services (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(1)). See “Exclusions from gift card definition,” above.

Loyalty, award, or promotional gift card is a card, code, or other device

- issued on a prepaid basis primarily for personal, family, or household purposes to a consumer in connection with a loyalty, award, or promotional program.
- that is redeemable upon presentation at one or more merchants for goods or services or usable at ATMs.
- that sets forth certain disclosures, including a statement indicating that the card, code, or other device is issued for loyalty, award, or promotional purposes (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(4)). See “Exclusions from gift card definition,” above.

Overdraft services. A financial institution provides an overdraft service if it assesses a fee or charge for paying a transaction (including a check or other item) when the consumer has insufficient or unavailable funds in the account to pay the transaction. An overdraft service does not, however, include payments made from the following:

- A line of credit subject to Regulation Z, such as a credit card account, a home equity line of credit, or an overdraft line of credit.
- Funds transferred from another account held individually or jointly by the consumer.
- A line of credit or other transaction from a securities or commodities account held by a broker-dealer registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) or the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) (12 CFR 1005.17(a)).

Person means a natural person or organization, including a corporation, government agency, estate, trust, partnership, proprietorship, cooperative, or association (12 CFR 1005.2(j)).

Preauthorized electronic fund transfer is an EFT authorized in advance to recur at substantially regular intervals (12 CFR 1005.2(k)).

State means any state, territory, or possession of the United States; the District of Columbia; the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico; or any of their political subdivisions (12 CFR 1005.2(1)).

Service fee is a periodic fee for holding or using a gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card. A periodic fee includes any fee that may be imposed on a gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card from time to time for holding or using the certificate or card (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(6)).

For example, a service fee may include a monthly maintenance fee, transaction fee, ATM fee, reload fee, foreign currency transaction fee, or balance inquiry fee, whether or not the fee is waived for a certain period of time or is only imposed after a certain period of time. A service fee does not include a one-time fee or a fee that is unlikely to be imposed more than once while the underlying funds are still valid, such as an initial issuance fee, a cash-out fee, a supplemental card fee, or a lost or stolen certificate or card replacement fee (staff commentary 1005.20(a)(6)–1).

Store gift card is a card, code, or other device issued on a prepaid basis primarily for personal, family, or household purposes to a consumer in a specified amount, whether or not that amount may be increased or reloaded, in exchange for payment, and redeemable upon presentation at a single merchant or an affiliated group of merchants for goods or services (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(2)). See “Exclusions from gift card definition,” above.

Unauthorized EFT is an EFT from a consumer’s account initiated by a person other than the consumer without authority to initiate the transfer and from which the consumer receives no benefit. This does not include an EFT initiated in any of the following ways:

- By a person who was furnished the access device to the consumer’s account by the consumer, unless the consumer has notified the financial institution that transfers by that person are no longer authorized;
- With fraudulent intent by the consumer or any person acting in concert with the consumer; or
- By the financial institution or its employee (12 CFR 1005.2(m)).

Coverage (12 CFR 1005.3)

The requirements of Regulation E apply only to accounts for which there is an agreement for EFT services to or from the account between (1) the consumer and the financial institution, or (2) the consumer and a third party, when the account-holding financial institution has received notice of the agreement and the fund transfers have begun (staff commentary 1005.3(a)–1).

Regulation E applies to all persons, including offices of foreign financial institutions in the United States, that offer EFT services to residents of any state. Regulation E covers any account located in the United States through which EFTs are offered to a resident of a state, no matter where a particular transfer occurs or where the financial institution is chartered (staff commentary 1005.3(a)–3). Regulation E does not apply to a foreign branch of a U.S.

financial institution unless the EFT services are offered in connection with an account in a state, as defined in 12 CFR 1005.2(l) (staff commentary 1005.3(a)–3).

Exclusions from coverage: 12 CFR 1005.3(c) describes transfers that are not EFTs and are therefore not covered by the EFTA and Regulation E:

- Transfers of funds originated by check, draft, or similar paper instrument.
- Check guarantee or authorization services that do not directly result in a debit or credit to a consumer's account.
- Any transfer of funds for a consumer within a system that is used primarily to transfer funds between financial institutions or businesses, e.g., Fedwire or other similar network.
- Any transfer of funds that has as its primary purpose the purchase or sale of securities or commodities regulated by the SEC or the CFTC, purchased or sold through a broker-dealer regulated by the SEC or through a futures commission merchant regulated by the CFTC, or held in book-entry form by a Federal Reserve Bank or federal agency.
- Intra-institutional automatic transfers under an agreement between a consumer and a financial institution.
- Transfers initiated by telephone between a consumer and a financial institution, provided the transfer is not a function of a written plan contemplating periodic or recurring transfers. A written statement available to the public, such as a brochure, that describes a service allowing a consumer to initiate transfers by telephone constitutes a written plan.
- Preauthorized transfers to or from accounts at financial institutions with assets of less than $100 million on the preceding December 31. Such preauthorized transfers, however, remain subject to the compulsory use prohibition under section 913 of the EFTA and 12 CFR 1005.10(e), as well as the civil and criminal liability provisions of section 915 and 916 of the EFTA. A small financial institution that provides EFT services besides preauthorized transfers must comply with the Regulation E requirements for those other services (staff commentary 1005.3(c)(7)–1). For example, a small financial institution that offers ATM services must comply with Regulation E concerning the issuance of debit cards, terminal receipts, periodic statements, and other requirements.

Electronic Check Conversion and Collection of Returned-Item Fees

Subpart A covers ECK transactions. In an ECK transaction, a consumer provides a check to a payee and information from the check is used to initiate a one-time EFT from the consumer's account. Although transfers originated by checks are not covered by Regulation E, an ECK is treated as an EFT and not a payment originated by check. Payees must obtain the consumer's authorization for each ECK transaction. A consumer authorizes a one-time EFT for an ECK transaction when the consumer receives notice that the transaction will or may be processed as an EFT and goes forward with the underlying transaction⁴ (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(2)(i) and (ii) and staff commentary 1005.3(b)(2)-3).

⁴ For POS transactions, the notice must be posted in a prominent and conspicuous location and a copy of the notice must be provided to the consumer at the time of the transaction (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(2)(i) and (ii) and staff commentary 1005.3(b)(2)–3).

If a payee re-presents electronically a check that has been returned unpaid, the transaction is not an EFT, and Regulation E does not apply because the transaction originated by check (staff commentary 1005.3(c)(1)–1).

Subpart A, however, applies to a fee collected electronically from a consumer's account for a check or EFT returned unpaid. A consumer authorizes a one-time EFT from the consumer's account to pay the fee for the returned item or transfer if the person collecting the fee provides notice to the consumer stating the amount of the fee and that the person may electronically collect the fee, and the consumer goes forward with the underlying transaction⁵ (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(3)). These authorization requirements do not apply to fees imposed by the account-holding financial institution for returning the check or EFT or paying the amount of an overdraft (staff commentary 1005.3(b)(3)–1)).

Disclosures

Disclosures, Generally (12 CFR 1005.4)

Required disclosures must be clear and readily understandable, in writing, and in a form the consumer may keep. The required disclosures may be provided to the consumer in electronic form if the consumer affirmatively consents after receiving a notice that complies with the Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act of 2000 (E-SIGN) (15 USC 7001 et seq.) (12 CFR 1005.4(a)(1)).

Disclosures may be made in a language other than English if the disclosures are made available in English upon the consumer's request (12 CFR 1005.4(a)(2)).

A financial institution has the option of disclosing additional information and combining disclosures required by other laws (for example, Truth in Lending Act disclosures) with Regulation E disclosures (12 CFR 1005.4(b)).

A financial institution may combine required disclosures into a single statement if a consumer holds two or more accounts at the financial institution. Thus, a single periodic statement or error resolution notice is sufficient for multiple accounts. In addition, it is only necessary for a financial institution to provide one set of disclosures for a joint account (12 CFR 1005.4(c)(1) and (2)).

Two or more financial institutions that jointly provide EFT services may contract among themselves to meet the requirements that the regulation imposes on any or all of them. When making initial disclosures (12 CFR 1005.7) and disclosures of a change in terms or an error resolution notice (12 CFR 1005.8), a financial institution in a shared system only needs to make disclosures that are within its knowledge and apply to its relationship with the consumer for whom it holds an account (12 CFR 1005.4(d)).

⁵ For POS transactions, the notice must be posted in a prominent and conspicuous location, and a copy of the notice must either be provided to the consumer at the time of the transaction or mailed to the consumer's address as soon as reasonably practicable after the person initiates the EFT to collect the fee (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(3)).

Initial Disclosure of Terms and Conditions (12 CFR 1005.7)

A financial institution must provide initial disclosures of the terms and conditions of EFT services before the first EFT is made or at the time the consumer contracts for an EFT service. It must give a summary of various consumer rights under the regulation, including the consumer's liability for unauthorized EFTs, the types of EFTs the consumer may make, limits on the frequency or dollar amount, fees charged by the financial institution, and the error resolution procedures. Appendix A to 12 CFR 1005 provides model clauses that financial institutions may use to provide the disclosures.

Timing of disclosures. A financial institution must make the required disclosures at the time a consumer contracts for an EFT service or before the first EFT is made involving the consumer's account (12 CFR 1005.7(a)).

Disclosures given by a financial institution earlier than the regulation requires (for example, when the consumer opens a checking account) need not be repeated when the consumer later authorizes an ECK or agrees with a third party to initiate preauthorized transfers to or from the consumer's account, unless the terms and conditions differ from the previously disclosed terms and conditions. This interpretation also applies to any notice provided about one-time EFTs from a consumer's account initiated using information from the consumer's check. On the other hand, if an agreement for EFT services to be provided by an account-holding financial institution is directly between the consumer and the account-holding financial institution, disclosures must be given in close proximity to the event requiring disclosure, for example, when the consumer contracts for a new service (staff commentary 1005.7(a)-1).

When a consumer authorizes a third party to debit or credit the consumer's account, an account-holding financial institution that has not received advance notice of the transfer or transfers must provide the required disclosures as soon as reasonably possible after the first debit or credit is made, unless the financial institution has previously given the disclosures (staff commentary 1005.7(a)-2).

If a consumer opens a new account permitting EFTs at a financial institution, and the consumer has already received Regulation E disclosures for another account at that financial institution, the financial institution need only disclose terms and conditions that differ from those previously given (staff commentary 1005.7(a)-3).

If a financial institution joins an interchange or shared network system (which provides access to terminals operated by other financial institutions), disclosures are required for additional EFT services not previously available to consumers if the terms and conditions differ from those previously disclosed (staff commentary 1005.7(a)-4).

A financial institution may provide disclosures covering all EFT services that it offers, even if some consumers have not arranged to use all services (staff commentary 1005.7(a)-5).

Addition of EFT services. A financial institution must make disclosures for any new EFT service added to a consumer's account if the terms and conditions are different from those described in the initial disclosures. ECK transactions may be a new type of transfer requiring new disclosures (appendix A–2 and staff commentary 1005.7(c)–1).

Content of disclosures. 12 CFR 1005.7(b) requires a financial institution to provide the following disclosures as they apply:

- Liability of consumers for unauthorized electronic fund transfers. The financial institution must include a summary of the consumer’s liability (under 12 CFR 1005.6, state law, or other applicable law or agreement) for unauthorized transfers (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(1)). A financial institution does not need to provide the liability disclosures if it imposes no liability on the consumer. If it later decides to impose liability, it must first provide the disclosures (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(1)–1). The financial institution can choose to include advice on promptly reporting unauthorized transfers or the loss or theft of the access device (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(1)–3).
- Telephone number and address. A financial institution must provide a specific telephone number and address, on or with the disclosure statement, for reporting a lost or stolen access device or a possible unauthorized transfer (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(2)–2). Instead of the telephone number and address for reporting a lost or stolen access device or a possible unauthorized transfer, the disclosure may insert a reference to a telephone number that is readily available to the consumer, such as “Call your branch office. The number is shown on your periodic statement” (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(2)–2).
- Business days. The financial institution’s business days (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(3)).
- Types of transfers and limitations on frequency or dollar amount. Limitations on the frequency and dollar amount of transfers generally must be disclosed in detail (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(4)). If the confidentiality of certain details is essential to the security of an account or system, these details may be withheld (but the fact that limitations exist must still be disclosed).⁶ A limitation on account activity that restricts the consumer’s ability to make EFTs must be disclosed even if the restriction also applies to transfers made by non-electronic means. Financial institutions are not required to list preauthorized transfers among the types of transfers that a consumer can make (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(4)–3). Financial institutions must disclose that one-time EFTs initiated using information from a consumer’s check are among the types of transfers that a consumer can make (appendix A–2 and staff commentary 1005.7(b)(4)–4).
- Fees. A financial institution must disclose all fees for EFTs or for the right to make EFTs (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(5)). Other fees, for example, minimum-balance fees, stop payment fees, account overdrafts, or ATM inquiry fees, may, but need not, be disclosed under Regulation E (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(5)–1).⁷ A per-item fee for EFTs must be disclosed even if the same fee is imposed on non-electronic transfers. If a per-item fee is imposed only under certain conditions, such as when the transactions in the cycle exceed a certain number, those conditions must be disclosed. Itemization of the various fees may be on the disclosure statement or on an accompanying document referenced in the statement (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(5)–2).

⁷ Regulation DD (12 CFR 1030), however, generally requires disclosure of those fees.

- Networks. A financial institution must disclose that a network used to complete the EFT, as well as an ATM operator, may charge a fee for an EFT or for balance inquiries (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(11)).
- Documentation. A summary of the consumer’s right to receipts and periodic statements, as provided in 12 CFR 1005.9, and notices regarding preauthorized transfers, as provided in 12 CFR 1005.10(a) and 12 CFR 1005.10(d) (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(6)).
- Stop payment. A summary of the consumer’s right to stop payment of a preauthorized EFT and the procedure for placing a stop payment order, as provided in 12 CFR 1005.10(c) (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(7)).
- Liability of institution. A summary of the financial institution’s liability to the consumer under section 910 of the EFTA for failure to make or to stop certain transfers (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(8)).
- Confidentiality. The circumstances under which, in the ordinary course of business, the financial institution may provide information concerning the consumer’s account to third parties (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(9)). A financial institution must describe the circumstances under which any information relating to an account to or from which EFTs are permitted will be made available to third parties, not just information concerning those EFTs. Third parties include other subsidiaries of the same holding company (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(9)–1).
- Error resolution. The error resolution notice must be substantially similar to Model Form A–3 in appendix A of 12 CFR 1005. A financial institution may use different wording so long as the substance of the notice remains the same, may delete inapplicable provisions (for example, the requirement for written confirmation of an oral notification), and may substitute substantive state law requirements affording greater consumer protection than Regulation E (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(10)–1). To take advantage of the longer time periods for resolving errors under 12 CFR 1005.11(c)(3) (for new accounts as defined in Regulation CC, transfers initiated outside the United States, or transfers resulting from POS debit card transactions), a financial institution must have disclosed these longer time periods. Similarly, a financial institution relying on the exception from provisional crediting in 12 CFR 1005.11(c)(2) for accounts relating to extensions of credit by securities brokers and dealers (Regulation T, 12 CFR 220) must disclose accordingly (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(10)–2).

Change in Terms; Error Resolution Notice (12 CFR 1005.8)

If a financial institution contemplates a change in terms or condition required to be disclosed under 12 CFR 1005.7(b), it must mail or deliver a written or electronic notice to the consumer at least 21 days before the effective date of that change in term or condition, if the change would result in any of the following:

- Increased fees or charges,
- Increased liability for the consumer,
- Fewer types of available EFTs, or

- Stricter limitations on the frequency or dollar amounts of transfers (12 CFR 1005.8(a)(1)).

If an immediate change in terms or conditions is necessary to maintain or restore the security of an EFT system or account, the financial institution does not need to give prior notice. If the change is to be permanent, however, the financial institution must provide notice in writing of the change to the consumer on or with the next regularly scheduled periodic statement or within 30 days, unless disclosures would jeopardize the security of the system or account (12 CFR 1005.8(a)(2)).

For accounts to or from which EFTs can be made, the financial institution must mail, deliver, or provide electronically to the consumer at least once each calendar year, the error resolution notice in 12 CFR 1005 appendix A (Model Form A-3(a)), or one substantially similar. Alternatively, the financial institution may include an abbreviated error resolution notice substantially similar to the notice set out in appendix A (Model Form A-3(b)) with each periodic statement (12 CFR 1005.8(b)).

Disclosures at ATMs (12 CFR 1005.16)

An ATM operator that charges a fee is required to post notice that a fee will be imposed and disclose the amount of the fee (12 CFR 1005.16(b)). Notices must be posted (1) in a prominent and conspicuous location on or at the machine and (2) on the screen or on a paper notice before the consumer is committed to paying a fee (12 CFR 1005.16(c)(1) and (2)). The fee may be imposed by the ATM operator only if (1) the consumer is provided the required notices and (2) the consumer elects to continue the transaction after receiving the required disclosures (12 CFR 1005.16(e)).

The “prominent and conspicuous notice” standard applies to a notice posted on or at the ATM. The “clear and readily understandable standard” applies to the content of the notice. The requirement that the notice be in a retainable format only applies to printed notices (not those on the ATM screen) (12 CFR 1005.16(c)).

These fee disclosures are not required when a network owner is not charging a fee directly to the consumer; for example, some network owners charge an interchange fee to financial institutions whose customers use the network (staff commentary 1005.7(b)(5)-3). If the network practices change such that the network charges the consumer directly, these fee disclosure requirements would apply to the network (12 CFR 1005.7(c)).

Overdraft Service Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.17)

Disclosure requirements for overdraft services are addressed in the Electronic Transaction Overdraft Services Opt-In section of this booklet.

Gift Card Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.20(c))

Disclosures must be clear and conspicuous and generally in a written or electronic form (except for certain pre-purchase disclosures, which may be given orally) that the consumer may retain. The fees, terms, and conditions of expiration required to be disclosed before purchase may not be changed after purchase.

A number of disclosures must be made on the actual card. Making such disclosures in an accompanying terms and conditions document, on packaging surrounding a certificate or card, or on a sticker or other label affixed to the certificate or card does not constitute a disclosure on the certificate or card. Those disclosures include the following:

- The existence, amount, and frequency of any dormancy, inactivity, or service fee;
- The expiration date for the underlying funds (or the fact that the funds do not expire);
- A toll-free telephone number and (if any) a Web site that the consumer may use to obtain a replacement certificate or card if the certificate or card expires while underlying funds are still available;
- A statement that the certificate or card expires, but the underlying funds do not expire or expire later than the certificate or card, as well as a statement that the consumer may contact the issuer for a replacement card;⁸ and
- A toll-free telephone number and (if any) a Web site that the consumer may use to obtain information about fees.

Additional disclosure requirements regarding fees. In addition to the disclosure requirements related to dormancy, inactivity, or service fees, all other fees must be disclosed as well. These disclosures must be provided on or with the certificate or card and disclosed before purchase. The certificate or card must also disclose a toll-free telephone number and Web site, if one is maintained, that a consumer may use to obtain fee information or replacement certificates or cards (12 CFR 1005.20(f)).

Disclosure Requirements for Loyalty, Award, or Promotional Gift Cards (12 CFR 1005.20(a)(4))

To qualify for the exclusion for loyalty, award, or promotional gift cards, the following must be disclosed:

- A statement indicating that the card, code, or other device is issued for loyalty, award, or promotional purposes, which must be included on the front of the card, code, or other device;
- The expiration date for the underlying funds, which must be included on the front of the card, code, or other device;
- The amount of any fees that may be imposed in connection with the card, code, or other device, and the conditions under which they may be imposed, which must be provided on or with the card, code, or other device; and ⁸ This requirement does not apply to non-reloadable certificates or cards that expire seven years or more after the date of manufacture.

- A toll-free telephone number and, if one is maintained, a Web site that a consumer may use to obtain fee information, which must be included on the card, code, or other device.

Electronic Transaction Overdraft Services Opt-In (12 CFR 1005.17)

Background

In recent years, overdraft protection services have been extended to cover overdrafts resulting from non-check transactions, including ATM withdrawals, debit card transactions at POS, online transactions, preauthorized transfers, and ACH transactions. Generally, institutions charge a flat fee each time an overdraft is paid, although some institutions have a tiered fee structure and charge higher fees based on the amount of the negative balance at the end of the day or as the number of overdrafts increases. Institutions commonly charge the same amount for paying check and ACH overdrafts as they would if they returned the item unpaid. Some institutions also impose a fee for each day the account remains overdrawn. For debit card overdrafts, the dollar amount of the fee and multiple assessments can exceed the dollar amount of the overdrafts.

In 2005, the OCC, the FRB, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the National Credit Union Administration issued guidance concerning the marketing, disclosure, and implementation of overdraft programs. The guidance also covers safety and soundness considerations and establishes a number of best practices financial institutions should incorporate into their overdraft programs. The 2009 revisions to Regulation E supersede portions of the guidance related to ATM and one-time debit card overdraft transactions. In addition to the revised Regulation E requirements, however, institutions are again advised to incorporate the “Joint Guidance on Overdraft Protection Programs” (see OCC Bulletin 2005-9) into their overdraft protection programs.

12 CFR 1005.17 was added in the 2009 revision to Regulation E.⁹ The revision provides consumers with a choice to opt into their institution’s overdraft protection program and be charged a fee for overdrafts for ATM and one-time debit card transactions. It also requires disclosure of the fees and terms associated with the institution’s overdraft service. Before an institution may assess overdraft fees, the consumer must opt in, or affirmatively consent, to the overdraft service for ATM and one-time debit card transactions, and the consumer has an ongoing right to revoke consent. Institutions may not require an opt-in for ATM and one-time debit transactions as a condition to the payment of overdrafts for checks and other transactions. The account terms, conditions, and features must be the same for consumers who opt in and for those who do not.

Opt-in requirement for overdraft services. The financial institution may assess a fee for paying an ATM or one-time debit card transaction pursuant to an overdraft service only if it has met the following requirements:

⁹ 74 FR 59033, November 17, 2009; 75 FR 31665, June 4, 2010.

- The financial institution has provided the consumer with a written (or, if the consumer agrees, electronic) notice, segregated from all other information, describing the overdraft service;
- The financial institution has provided a reasonable opportunity for the consumer to affirmatively consent (opt in) to the overdraft service for ATM and one-time debit card transactions;
- The financial institution has obtained the consumer's affirmative consent (opt in) for ATM and one-time debit card transactions; and
- The financial institution has mailed or delivered written (or, if the consumer agrees, electronic) confirmation of the consent, including a statement informing the consumer of the right to revoke consent. An institution complies if it adopts reasonable procedures to ensure that it assesses overdraft fees only for transactions paid after mailing or delivering the confirmation to the consumer (12 CFR 1005.17(b)(1) and staff commentary 1005.17(b)–7).

Fee prohibitions. As a general rule, an institution may not charge overdraft fees for paying an ATM or one-time debit card transaction unless the consumer has opted in. The fee prohibition also applies to an institution that has a policy and practice of not paying an ATM or one-time debit card overdraft when it reasonably believes at the time of the authorization request that the consumer does not have sufficient funds available to pay the transaction, although the institution does not have to comply with the notice and opt-in requirements (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–1(iv)).

Lack of consent by the consumer does not prohibit the financial institution from paying ATM or one-time debit card overdrafts. The financial institution, however, may charge a fee only if the consumer has consented to the institution's overdraft service for ATM and one-time debit card transactions (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–2). Conversely, the financial institution is not required to pay an ATM or one-time debit card overdraft even if the consumer has consented to pay a fee (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–3).

For a consumer who has not opted in, if an overdraft fee or charge is based on the amount of the outstanding negative balance, an institution may not impose that fee for a negative balance that is solely attributable to an ATM or one-time debit card transaction. An institution may assess a fee, however, if the negative balance is attributable in whole or in part to a check, ACH transaction, or other type of transaction not subject to the prohibition on assessing overdraft fees (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–8).

For a consumer who has not opted in, the institution may not assess daily or sustained negative balance, overdraft, or similar fees for a negative balance, based solely on ATM or one-time debit card transactions. If the negative balance is attributable in part to a check, ACH transaction, or other type of transaction not subject to the prohibition on assessing overdraft fees, however, the institution may charge a daily or sustained overdraft or similar fee, even if the consumer has not opted in. The date the fee may be charged is based on the date on which the check, ACH, or other type of transaction is paid into overdraft (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–9).

Contents and format of notice. The notice describing the overdraft service must be substantially similar to Model Form A–9. The notice must include all of the following items and may not contain any other information not expressly specified or otherwise permitted:

- A brief description of the overdraft service and the types of transactions for which the financial institution may charge a fee;
- The dollar amount of any fee that may be charged for an ATM or one-time debit card transaction, including any daily or other overdraft fees;¹⁰
- The maximum number of fees that may be charged per day, or, if applicable, that there is no limit;
- An explanation of the right to affirmatively consent to the overdraft service, including the methods by which the consumer may consent;¹¹ and
- The availability of a line of credit or a service that transfers funds from another account to cover overdrafts, if the financial institution offers those alternatives¹² (12 CFR 1005.17(d)(1) through (d)(5)).

The financial institution also may (but is not required to) include the following information, to the extent applicable:

- Disclosure of the right to opt into, or out of, the payment of overdrafts for other types of transactions (e.g., checks, ACH transactions, or automatic bill payments) and a means for the consumer to exercise such choices;
- Disclosure of the financial institution’s returned item fee, as well as the fact that merchants may charge additional fees; and
- Disclosure of the right to revoke consent (12 CFR 1005.17(d)(6)).

Reasonable opportunity to consent. The financial institution must provide a reasonable opportunity for the consumer to consent to payment of an overdraft fee in return for the bank’s paying an ATM or one-time debit card transaction. Reasonable methods of consent include mail, if the financial institution provides a form for the consumer to fill out and mail; telephone, if the financial institution provides a readily available telephone line that the consumer may call; electronic means, if the financial institution provides a form that can be accessed and processed at its Web site, by which means the consumer may click on a box to ¹⁰ If the amount of the fee may vary based on the number of times the consumer has overdrawn the account, the amount of the overdraft, or other factors, the financial institution must disclose the maximum fee.

¹² If the institution offers both a line of credit subject to the CFPB’s Regulation Z (section 1026) and a service that transfers funds from another account of the consumer held at the institution to cover overdrafts, the institution must state in its opt-in notice that both alternative plans are offered. If the institution offers one, but not the other, it must state in its opt-in notice the alternative plan that it offers. If the institution does not offer either plan, it should omit the reference to the alternative plans. (staff commentary 1005.17(d)–5). If the financial institution offers additional alternatives for paying overdrafts, it may (but is not required to) disclose those alternatives (staff commentary 1005.17(d)(5)).

consent and click on a button to affirm consent; or in person, if the financial institution provides a form for the consumer to complete and present at a branch or office (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–4). The financial institution may provide the opportunity to consent and require the consumer to make a choice as a step to opening an account (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–5).

Affirmative consent is necessary. An important feature of the opt-in is that the consumer’s affirmative consent is necessary before the institution may charge overdraft fees for paying an ATM or one-time debit card transaction (12 CFR 1005.17(b)(1)(iii)). The consent must be separate from other consents or acknowledgments (including consent to receive disclosures electronically). Check boxes are allowed, but the check box and the consumer’s signature may only apply to the consumer’s consent to opt-in. Preprinted disclosures about the overdraft service provided with a signature card or contract do not constitute affirmative consent (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–6).

Confirmation and consumer’s right to revoke. Not only must the consumer affirmatively consent, but the institution must also mail or deliver to the consumer a written confirmation (or electronic, if the consumer agrees) that the consumer has consented, along with a statement informing the consumer of the right to revoke the consent at any time (12 CFR 1005.17(b)(1)(iv) and staff commentary 1005.17(b)–7). An institution complies with the confirmation requirement if it has adopted reasonable procedures to ensure that overdraft fees are assessed only on transactions paid after the confirmation is mailed or delivered to the consumer (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–7).

Assessing fees. For consumers who have not opted in, institutions are prohibited from charging overdraft fees for paying ATM or one-time debit card transactions. This prohibition applies to daily or sustained overdraft, negative balance, or similar fees. The rule does not, however, prohibit an institution from assessing these fees if the negative balance is attributable, in whole or part, to a check, ACH, or other transaction not subject to the fee prohibition. If, for example, the negative balance is attributable in part to an ATM transaction, and in part to a check, a fee may be assessed based on the date when the check is paid into overdraft, not the date of the ATM or one-time debit transaction (staff commentary 1005.17(b)–9).

Conditioning payment of other overdrafts. The financial institution may not condition the payment of other types of overdraft transactions on the consumer’s affirmative consent, and the financial institution may not decline to pay other types of overdraft transactions because the consumer has not affirmatively consented, to the payment of ATM and one-time debit card overdrafts (12 CFR 1005.17(b)(2)). In other words, the financial institution may not use different criteria for paying other types of overdraft transactions for consumers who have consented and for consumers who have not consented (staff commentary 1005.17(b)(2)–1).

Same account terms, conditions, and features. The financial institution must provide to consumers who do not affirmatively consent the same account terms, conditions, and features (except the payment of ATM and one-time debit overdrafts) that are available to consumers who do affirmatively consent (12 CFR 1005.17(b)(3)). That requirement includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- Interest rates paid.
- Fees assessed.
- The type of ATM or debit card provided to the depositor.¹³
- Minimum balance requirements.
- Online bill payment services (staff commentary 1005.17(b)(3)–1).

Joint accounts. Any consumer may consent, or revoke consent, for payment of ATM or one-time debit card transactions from a joint account (12 CFR 1005.17(e)).

Continuing right to consent or revoke. A consumer may consent to the payment of ATM and one-time debit card overdrafts at any time. A consumer may also revoke consent at any time. The financial institution must implement a revocation as soon as reasonably practicable (12 CFR 1005.17(f)). The financial institution need not waive overdraft fees assessed before it implements the consumer’s revocation (staff commentary 1005.17(f)–1).

Duration of consent. Consent remains effective until the consumer revokes it, unless the financial institution terminates the overdraft service (12 CFR 1005.17(g)). The financial institution may terminate the overdraft service, for example, if the consumer makes excessive use of the service (staff commentary 1005.17(g)–1).

Effective date. The overdraft services rule became effective on January 19, 2010, and compliance became mandatory starting July 1, 2010. For accounts opened on or after July 1, 2010, the financial institution must obtain the consumer’s consent before charging a fee for payment of any ATM or one-time debit overdraft. For accounts opened before July 1, 2010, however, the financial institution may not charge a fee for paying any ATM or one-time debit overdraft on or after August 15, 2010, unless it has obtained the consumer’s consent (12 CFR 1005.17(c)).

Issuance of Access Devices (12 CFR 1005.5 and 12 CFR 1005.18)

In general, a financial institution may issue an access device to a consumer only in the following cases:

- The consumer requested it in writing or orally.¹⁴
- It is a renewal of, or a substitute for, an accepted access device (as defined in 12 CFR 1005.2(a)) (12 CFR 1005.5(a)).

Only one renewal or substitute device may replace a previously issued device. A financial institution may provide additional devices at the time it issues the renewal or substitute access device provided the institution complies with the requirements for issuing unsolicited access devices for the additional devices (staff commentary 1005.5(a)(2)–1 and 5(b)–5).

A financial institution may issue an unsolicited access device only if the access device meets all of the following criteria. The access device is

- not validated, that is, it cannot be used to initiate an EFT.
- accompanied by the explanation that it is not validated and how the consumer may dispose of it if the consumer does not wish to validate it.
- accompanied by a complete disclosure, in accordance with 12 CFR 1005.7, of the consumer's rights and liabilities that will apply if the access device is validated.
- validated only upon oral or written request from the consumer and after a verification of the consumer's identity by some reasonable means (12 CFR 1005.5(b)).

The financial institution may use any reasonable means of verifying the consumer's identity, but the consumer is not liable for any unauthorized transfers if an imposter succeeds in validating the access device (staff commentary 1005.5(b)–4).

Payroll card access devices. Consistent with 12 CFR 1005.5(a), a financial institution may issue a payroll card access device only in response to an oral or written request for the device or as a renewal or substitute for an accepted access device. A consumer is deemed to request an access device for a payroll account when the consumer chooses to receive salary or other compensation through a payroll card account (staff commentary 1005.18(a)–1).

EFT added to credit card. The EFTA and Regulation E apply when the capability to initiate EFTs is added to an accepted credit card (as defined under Regulation Z). The EFTA and Regulation E also apply to the issuance of an access device that permits credit extensions under a pre-existing agreement between the consumer and a financial institution to extend credit only to cover overdrafts (or to maintain a specified minimum balance). The Truth in Lending Act and Regulation Z govern the addition of a credit feature to an accepted access device, and, except as discussed above, the issuance of a credit card that is also an access device. For information on Regulation E's relationship to other laws, including the Truth in Lending Act, see 12 CFR 1005.12.

Consumer Liability and Error Resolution

Liability of Consumers for Unauthorized Transfers (12 CFR 1005.6)

A consumer may be liable for an unauthorized EFT (defined in 12 CFR 1005.2(m)) depending on when the consumer notifies the financial institution and whether an access device was used to conduct the transaction. Under the EFTA, there is no bright-line time limit within which consumers must report unauthorized EFTs (71 Fed. Reg. 1638, 71 Fed. Reg. 1653 (January 10, 2006)).

The extent of the consumer's liability is determined solely by the consumer's promptness in notifying the financial institution (staff commentary 1005.6(b)–3). Other factors may not be used as a basis to hold consumers liable. Regulation E expressly prohibits the following factors as the basis for imposing greater liability than is permissible under Regulation E: the consumer was negligent (for example, by writing a PIN on an ATM card); an agreement between the consumer and the financial institution provides for greater liability; or the consumer is liable for a greater amount under state law (staff commentaries 1005.6(b)-2 and 6(b)-3).

A consumer may only be held liable for an unauthorized transaction, within the limitations set forth in 12 CFR 1005.6(b), if

- the financial institution has provided all of the following written disclosures to the consumer:
 - A summary of the consumer’s liability for unauthorized EFTs.
 - The telephone number and address for reporting that an unauthorized EFT has been or may be made.
 - The financial institution’s business days.
- any access device used to effect the EFT was an accepted access device (as defined in 12 CFR 1005.2(a)).
- the financial institution has provided a means to identify the consumer to whom the access device was issued (12 CFR 1005.6(a)).

Regulation E allows, but does not require, the financial institution to provide a separate means to identify each consumer of a multiple-user account (staff commentary 1005.6(a)-2).

The limitations on the amount of consumer liability for unauthorized EFTs, the time limits within which consumers must report unauthorized EFTs, and the liability for failing to adhere to those time limits, are listed in the following chart. The financial institution may impose less consumer liability than is provided by 12 CFR 1005.6 based on state law or the deposit agreement (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(6)).

Consumer Liability for Unauthorized Transfers: Electronic Fund Transfer Act—Regulation E (12 CFR 1005.6)

Event	Timing of consumer notice to financial institution	Maximum liability
Loss or theft of access device ^a	Within two business days after learning of loss or theft.	Lesser of $50, OR total amount of unauthorized transfers.
Loss or theft of access device	More than two business days after learning of loss or theft up to 60 calendar days after transmittal of statement showing first unauthorized transfer made with access device.	Lesser of $500, OR the sum of (a) $50 or the total amount of unauthorized transfers occurring in the first two business days, whichever is less, AND (b) the amount of unauthorized transfers occurring after two business days and before notice to the financial institution. ^b
Loss or theft of access device	More than 60 calendar days after transmittal of statement showing first unauthorized transfer made with access device.	For transfers occurring within the 60-day period, the lesser of $500, OR the sum of (a) lesser of $50 or the amount of unauthorized transfers in first two business days, AND (b) the amount of unauthorized transfers occurring after two business days. For transfers occurring after the 60-day period, unlimited liability (until the financial institution is notified). ^c
Unauthorized transfer(s) not involving loss or theft of an access device	Within 60 calendar days after transmittal of the periodic statement on which the unauthorized transfer first appears.	No liability.
Unauthorized transfer(s) not involving loss or theft of an access device	More than 60 calendar days after transmittal of the periodic statement on which the unauthorized transfer first appears.	Unlimited liability for unauthorized transfers occurring 60 calendar days after the periodic statement and before notice to the financial institution.

^a Includes a PIN if used without a card in a telephone transaction, for example.

^b Provided the financial institution demonstrates that these transfers would not have occurred had notice been given within the two-business-day period.

^c Provided the financial institution demonstrates that these transfers would not have occurred had notice been given within the 60-day period.

Knowledge of loss or theft. The fact that a consumer has received a periodic statement reflecting an unauthorized transaction is a factor, but not conclusive evidence, in determining whether the consumer had knowledge of a loss or theft of the access device (staff commentary 1005.6(b)(1)–2).

Timing of notice. If a consumer’s delay in notifying a financial institution was due to extenuating circumstances, such as extended travel or hospitalization, the time periods for notification specified above must be extended to a reasonable time (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(4) and staff commentary 1005.6(b)(4)–1).

Notice to the financial institution. A consumer gives notice to a financial institution about unauthorized use when the consumer takes reasonable steps to provide the financial institution with the pertinent information, whether or not a particular employee actually receives the information (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(5)(i)). Even if the consumer is unable to provide the account number or the card number, the notice effectively limits the consumer’s liability if the consumer sufficiently identifies the account in question, for example, by giving the name on the account and the type of account (staff commentary 1005.6(b)(5)–3). At the consumer’s option, notice may be given in person, by telephone, or in writing (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(5)(ii)). Notice in writing is considered given at the time the consumer mails the notice or delivers the notice for transmission by any other usual means to the financial institution. Notice may also be considered to have been constructively given when the financial institution becomes aware of circumstances leading to the reasonable belief that an unauthorized transfer has been or may be made (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(5)(iii)).

Relation of error resolution to truth in lending. The liability and error resolution provisions in 12 CFR 1005.6 and 12 CFR 1005.11 apply to an extension of credit that occurs under an agreement between the consumer and a financial institution to extend credit when the consumer’s account is overdrawn, to maintain a specified minimum balance in the consumer’s account, or under an overdraft service (12 CFR 1005.12(a)(1)(ii)). As provided in 12 CFR 1005.12 and related staff commentary, for transactions involving access devices that also function as credit cards, the liability and error resolution provisions of 12 CFR 1005.6 and 12 CFR 1005.11 or Regulation Z will apply depending on the nature of the transaction

- if the unauthorized use of a combined access device/credit card solely involves an extension of credit, other than an extension of credit described under 12 CFR 1005.12(a)(1)(iii), and does not involve an EFT, for example, when the card is used to draw cash advances directly from a credit line, only the error resolution provisions of Regulation Z will apply.
- if the unauthorized use of a combined access device/credit card involves only an EFT, for example, debit card purchases or cash withdrawals at an ATM from a checking account, only the error resolution provisions of Regulation E will apply.
- if a combined access device/credit card is stolen and unauthorized transactions are made by using the card as both a debit card and a credit card, Regulation E will apply to the unauthorized transactions in which the card was used as a debit card, and Regulation Z will apply to the unauthorized transactions in which the card was used as a credit card.

Procedures for Resolving Errors (12 CFR 1005.11)

This section defines the term error and describes the steps the consumer must take when asserting an error in order to receive the protection of the EFTA and Regulation E and the procedures that a financial institution must follow to resolve an alleged error.

An error includes any of the following:

- An unauthorized EFT.
- An incorrect EFT to or from the consumer's account.
- The omission from a periodic statement of an EFT to or from the consumer's account that should have been included.
- A computational or bookkeeping error made by the financial institution relating to an EFT.
- The consumer's receipt of an incorrect amount of money from an electronic terminal.
- An EFT not identified in accordance with the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.9 or 12 CFR 1005.10(a).
- A consumer's request for any documentation required by 12 CFR 1005.9 or 12 CFR 1005.10(a) or for additional information or clarification concerning an EFT (12 CFR 1005.11(a)(1)).

The term error does not include the following:

- A routine inquiry about the balance in the consumer's account or a request for duplicate copies of documentation or other information that is made only for tax or other record-keeping purposes (12 CFR 1005.11(a)(2)(i), (ii), and (iii)).
- The fact that a financial institution does not make a terminal receipt available for a transfer of $15 or less in accordance with 12 CFR 1005.9(e) (staff commentary 1005.11(a)–6).

A financial institution must comply with the error resolution procedures in 12 CFR 1005.11 with respect to any oral or written notice of error from the consumer that

- the financial institution receives not later than 60 days after sending a periodic statement or other documentation first reflecting the alleged error (12 CFR 1005.14 and 12 CFR 1005.18).
- enables the financial institution to identify the consumer's name and account number.
- indicates why the consumer believes the error exists and, to the extent possible, the type, date, and amount of the error (12 CFR 1005.11(b)(1)).

A financial institution may require a consumer to give written confirmation of an error within 10 business days of giving oral notice. The financial institution must provide the address where confirmation must be sent (12 CFR 1005.11(b)(2)).

Section 909(b) of the EFTA establishes that the burden of proof is on the financial institution to show that the transaction was authorized. Conducting good faith, reasonable investigations can help institutions satisfy this burden of proof. The EFTA provides for treble damages in legal actions filed by consumers if certain factual circumstances are present.

The OCC is concerned that some institutions may be rejecting claims of unauthorized transactions solely because the customer's ATM card or debit card and PIN were used in the transaction, and the customer supplied no information indicating that the card or PIN was misappropriated. These facts alone may be insufficient to establish that a transaction was authorized because fraudulent means may have been used to obtain the customer's account number, card, or PIN. For instance, the customer may have been a victim of "shoulder surfing," a practice used by criminals to obtain account or card numbers or PINs by observing customer transactions. Therefore, institutions cannot assume that they have satisfied their duty to investigate simply by concluding that the customer's debit card and PIN were used in the transaction at issue. Rather, institutions must take steps to investigate whether there are indications that unauthorized use occurred.

To assist institutions in complying with EFTA and Regulation E error resolution procedures, the OCC has compiled a list of actions banks may take to help determine whether a transaction was authorized.¹⁵ A reasonable investigation under Regulation E might include review of one or more of the following items:

- Documentation or written, signed statements provided by the customer.
- Historical information on the customer's pattern of use (e.g., time, frequency, location, and types and amounts of transactions).
- Location of the transaction in relation to the customer's residence, place of business, or normal shopping locations.
- Customer's location at the time of the unauthorized transaction.
- Problems reported by other customers regarding the access device or ATM.
- Signature information on POS transactions.
- Police reports, if available.
- Film from security cameras, if available.

An institution may request a customer's reasonable cooperation in any such investigation. It may not, however, deny a claim of error based solely on the cardholder's failure to comply with such a request.

Error resolution procedures. After receiving a notice of error, the financial institution must do all of the following (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(1)):

- Promptly investigate the oral or written allegation of error.
- Complete its investigation within 10 business.
- Report the results of its investigation within three business days after completing its investigation.
- Correct the error within one business day after determining that an error has occurred.

The financial institution may take up to 45 calendar days (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(2)(i) and (ii)) to complete its investigation provided it ¹⁵ As a general matter, a financial institution may limit its review to its own records if (1) the transfer is to or from a third party, and (2) there is no agreement between the institution and the third party for the type of EFT involved (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(4)).

- provisionally credits the funds (including interest, when applicable) to the consumer's account within the 10 business-day period.
- advises the consumer within two business days of the provisional crediting.
- gives the consumer full use of the funds during the investigation.

A financial institution need not provisionally credit the account if the consumer fails to provide the required written confirmation of an oral notice of error, or if the notice of error involves an account subject to the margin requirements or other aspects of Regulation T (Securities Credit by Brokers and Dealers, 12 CFR 220) (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(2)(i)(B)).

If, after investigating the alleged error, the financial institution determines that an error has occurred, it must promptly (within one business day after such determination) correct the error, including the crediting of interest, if applicable. The financial institution must provide within three business days of the completed investigation an oral or written report of the correction to the consumer and, as applicable, notify the consumer that the provisional credit has been made final (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(2)(iii) and (iv)).

When an error involves an unauthorized EFT, however, the financial institution must comply with the requirements of the provisions relating to unauthorized EFTs before holding the consumer liable, even if the consumer does not provide a notice of error within the time limits in 12 CFR 1005.11(b) (staff commentary 1005.11(b)(1)–7).

When investigating a claim of error, the financial institution need only review its own records if the alleged error concerns a transfer to or from a third party and there is no agreement between the financial institution and the third party for the type of EFT involved (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(4)). The financial institution may not limit its investigation solely to the payment instructions when other information within the financial institution's records pertaining to a particular account may help to resolve a consumer's claim (staff commentary 1005.11(c)(4)–5).

If the financial institution determines that no error occurred or that an error occurred in a different manner or amount from that described by the consumer, the financial institution must mail or deliver a written explanation of its findings within three business days after concluding its investigation. The explanation must include a notice of the consumer's rights to request the documents upon which the financial institution relied in making its determination (12 CFR 1005.11(d)(1)). Upon request from the consumer, the financial institution must promptly mail or deliver to the consumer copies of documents upon which it relied in making its determination (12 CFR 1005.11(d)(2)).

Upon debiting a provisionally credited amount, the financial institution must notify the consumer of the date and amount of the debit and of the fact that the financial institution will honor (without charge) checks, drafts, or similar paper instruments payable to third parties and preauthorized debits for five business days after transmittal of the notice. The financial institution need honor only items that it would have paid if the provisionally credited funds had not been debited.

If a notice involves an error that occurred within 30 days after the first deposit to the account was made, the time periods to complete the financial institution's investigation are extended from 10 and 45 days, to 20 and 90 days, respectively. If the notice of error involves a transaction that was not initiated in a state or resulted from a POS debit card transaction, the 45-day period is extended to 90 days (12 CFR 1005.11(c)(3)).

If a financial institution has fully complied with the investigation requirements, it generally does not need to reinvestigate if a consumer later reasserts the same error. It must investigate, however, a claim of error asserted by a consumer following receipt of information provided pursuant to 12 CFR 1005.11(a)(1)(vii) (12 CFR 1005.11(e)).

Receipts and Periodic Statements

Documentation of Transfers (12 CFR 1005.9)

Electronic terminal receipts. Receipts must be made available at the time a consumer initiates an EFT at an electronic terminal (12 CFR 1005.9(a)). Financial institutions may choose to provide receipts only to consumers who elect to receive one (staff commentary 1005.9(a)–1). The receipt must include the following, as applicable:

- Amount of the transfer. A charge for making the transfer may be included in the amount, provided the charge is disclosed on the receipt, and on a sign posted on or at the terminal.
- Date. The date the consumer initiates the transfer.
- Type of transfer and type of account. Descriptions such as “withdrawal from checking” or “transfer from savings to checking” are appropriate. This is true even if the accounts are only similar in function to a checking account (such as a share draft or negotiable order of withdrawal (NOW account) or a savings account (such as a share account)). If the access device used can only access one account, the type of account may be omitted (staff commentaries 1005.9(a)(3)–1; 1005.9(a)(3)–2; 1005.9(a)(3)–4; and 1005.9(a)(3)–5).
- Number or code identifying the consumer's account(s) or the access device used to initiate the transfer. The number and code need not exceed four digits or letters.
- Location of the terminal. The location of the terminal where the transfer is initiated or an identification, such as a code or terminal number. If the location is disclosed, except in limited circumstances when all terminals are located in the same city or state, the receipt must include the city and state or foreign country and one of the following:
 - Street address of the terminal;
 - Generally accepted name for the location of the terminal (such as an airport, shopping center, or branch of a financial institution); or
 - Name of the entity (if other than the financial institution providing the statement) at whose place of business the terminal is located, such as a store, and the city, state, or foreign country (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(5)).
- Name of any third party to or from whom funds are transferred. A code may be used to identify the party if the code is explained on the receipt. This requirement does not apply if the name of the party is provided by the consumer in a manner the terminal cannot duplicate on the receipt, such as on a payment stub (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(6) and staff commentary 1005.9(a)(6)–1).

Receipts are not required for EFTs of $15 or less (12 CFR 1005.9(e)).

Periodic statements. Periodic statements must be sent for each monthly cycle in which an EFT has occurred, and at least quarterly if no EFT has occurred (12 CFR 1005.9(b)). For each EFT made during the cycle, the statement must include the following, as applicable:

- Amount of the transfer. If a charge was imposed at an electronic terminal by the owner or operator of the terminal, that charge may be included in the amount.
- Date the transfer was posted to the account.
- Type of transfer(s) and type of account(s) to or from which funds were transferred.
- For each transfer (except deposits of cash, or a check, draft, or similar paper instrument to the consumer's account) initiated at an electronic terminal, the terminal location as required for the receipt under 12 CFR 1005.9(a)(5).
- Name of any third-party payee or payor.
- Account number(s).
- Total amount of any fees and charges, other than a finance charge as defined by Regulation Z, assessed during the period for making EFTs, the right to make EFTs, or for account maintenance.
- Balance in the account at the beginning and close of the statement period.
- Address and telephone number to be used by the consumer for inquiries or notice of errors. If the financial institution has elected to send the abbreviated error notice with every periodic statement, the address and telephone number may appear on that document.
- If the financial institution has provided a telephone number which the consumer can use to find out whether or not a preauthorized transfer has taken place, that telephone number.

Exceptions to the Periodic Statement Requirement for Certain Accounts

Passbook accounts. When a consumer's passbook may not be accessed by an EFT other than preauthorized transfers to the account, a periodic statement need not be sent, provided that the financial institution updates the consumer's passbook or provides the required information on a separate document at the consumer's request. To update the passbook, the amount and date of each EFT made since the passbook was last presented must be listed (12 CFR 1005.9(c)(1)(i)). For other accounts that may be accessed only by preauthorized transfers to the account, the financial institution must send a periodic statement at least quarterly (12 CFR 1005.9(c)(1)(ii)).

Transfers between accounts. If a transfer occurs between two accounts of the consumer at the same financial institution, the transfer need only be documented for one of the two accounts (12 CFR 1005.9(c)(2)). A preauthorized transfer between two accounts of the consumer at the same financial institution is subject to the 12 CFR 1005.9(c)(1) rule on preauthorized transfers and not the 12 CFR 1005.9(c)(2) rule on intra-institutional transfers (12 CFR 1005.9(c)(3)).

Documentation for foreign-initiated transfers. If an EFT is initiated outside the United States, the financial institution need not provide a receipt or a periodic statement reflecting the transfer if it treats an inquiry for clarification or documentation as a notice of error (12 CFR 1005.9(d)).

Alternatives to Periodic Statements for Financial Institutions Offering Payroll Card Accounts (12 CFR 1005.18)

This section provides an alternative to providing periodic statements for payroll card accounts if financial institutions make the account information available to consumers by specific means. In addition, this section clarifies how financial institutions that do not provide periodic statements for payroll card accounts can comply with the Regulation E requirements relating to initial disclosures, the annual error resolution notice, liability limits, and the error resolution procedures.

Typically, employers and third-party service providers do not meet the definition of a “financial institution” subject to the regulation because they neither (1) hold payroll card accounts nor (2) issue payroll cards and agree with consumers to provide EFT services in connection with payroll card accounts. To the extent an employer or a service provider undertakes either of these functions, however, it would be deemed a financial institution under the regulation (staff commentary 1005.18(a)–2).

Alternative to periodic statements. A financial institution does not need to furnish periodic statements required by 12 CFR 1005.9(b) if the financial institution makes available to the consumer the following (12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1)):

- The account balance, through a readily available telephone line,
- An electronic history of account transactions covering at least 60 days preceding the date the consumer electronically accesses the account, and
- A written history of the account transactions provided promptly in response to an oral or written request and covering at least 60 days preceding the date the financial institution receives the consumer’s request.

The history of account transactions must include the same type of information required on periodic statements under 12 CFR 1005.9(b) (12 CFR 1005.18(b)(2)).

Requirements to comply with Regulation E. If a financial institution provides an alternative to periodic statements under 12 CFR 1005.18(b), it must comply with the following:

- Modify the initial disclosures under 12 CFR 1005.7(b) by disclosing the following:
 - A telephone number that the consumer may call to obtain the account balance; the means by which the consumer can obtain an electronic account history, such as a

- Web site address; and a summary of the consumer’s right to receive a written account history upon request (in place of the summary of the right to receive a periodic statement required by 12 CFR 1005.7(b)(6)), including a telephone number to call to request a history. The disclosure required by 12 CFR 1005.18(c)(1)(i) may be made by providing a notice substantially similar to the notice contained in paragraph A–7(a) in appendix A of 12 CFR 1005.
- A notice concerning error resolution that is substantially similar to the notice contained in paragraph A–7(b) in appendix A, in place of the notice required by 12 CFR 1005.7(b)(10).
 - Provide an annual error resolution notice that is substantially similar to the notice contained in paragraph (b) to A–7—Model Clauses for Financial Institutions Offering Payroll Card Accounts in appendix A of 12 CFR 1005, in place of the notice required by 12 CFR 1005.8(b). Alternatively, a financial institution may include on or with each electronic and written history provided in accordance with 12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1), a notice substantially similar to the abbreviated notice for periodic statements contained in paragraph A–3(b) in appendix A, modified as necessary to reflect the error resolution set forth in this section.
 - Set limits on consumer liability.
 - For purposes of 12 CFR 1005.6(b)(3), the 60-day period for reporting any unauthorized transfer begins on the earlier of
 - the date the consumer electronically accesses the consumer’s account under 12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1)(ii), provided that the electronic history made available to the consumer reflects the transfer; or
 - the date the financial institution sends a written history of the consumer’s account transactions requested by the consumer under 12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1)(iii) in which the unauthorized transfer is first reflected.
 - A financial institution may limit the consumer’s liability for an unauthorized transfer as provided under 12 CFR 1005.6(b)(3) for transfers reported by the consumer within 120 days after the transfer was credited or debited to the consumer’s account.
 - Comply with error resolution requirements:
 - An error notice is considered timely, and the financial institution must comply with the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.11, if the financial institution receives notice from the consumer no later than the earlier of
 - 60 days after the date the consumer electronically accesses the consumer’s account under 12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1)(ii), provided that the electronic history made available to the consumer reflects the alleged error; or
 - 60 days after the date the financial institution sends a written history of the consumer’s account transactions requested by the consumer under 12 CFR 1005.18(b)(1)(iii) in which the alleged error is first reflected.
 - Alternatively, a financial institution complies with the error resolution requirements in 12 CFR 1005.11 if it investigates any oral or written notice of an error from the consumer that is received by the financial institution within 120 days after the transfer allegedly in error was credited or debited to the consumer’s account.

Gift Cards (12 CFR 1005.20)

Background

A gift card is a type of prepaid card that is designed to be purchased by one consumer and given to another consumer as a present or expression of appreciation or recognition. When the gift card is provided in the form of a plastic card, a user of a gift card is able to access and spend the value associated with the device by swiping the card at a POS terminal, much as a person would use a debit card.

There are two distinct types of gift cards: closed-loop cards and open-loop cards. Closed-loop gift cards constitute the majority of the gift card market; are typically issued by a merchant, not by a financial institution; and generally can only be used to make purchases at the merchant or group of merchants. Open-loop gift cards are generally issued by financial institutions, typically carry a card network brand logo, can be used at a wide variety of merchants, and are more likely to carry fees compared to closed-loop gift cards, including card issuance and transaction-based fees. Open-loop gift cards are more likely to offer the capability of being reloaded with additional value (reloadable) than are closed-loop gift cards.

Concerns have been raised regarding the amount of fees associated with gift cards, the expiration dates of gift cards, and the adequacy of disclosures. Consumers who do not use the value of the card within a short period of time may be surprised to find that the card has expired or that dormancy or service fees have reduced the value of the card. Even where fees or terms are disclosed on or with the card, the disclosures may not be clear and conspicuous. 12 CFR 1005.20 contains restrictions on dormancy, inactivity and service fees, and expiration dates.

Scope of the gift card rule (12 CFR 1005.20(a) and (b)). The rule is generally limited to gift certificates, store gift cards, or general-use prepaid cards sold or issued to consumers primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. It generally does not apply to cards, codes, or other devices that are (i) reloadable and not marketed or labeled as gift cards or gift certificates, or (ii) to loyalty awards or promotional gift cards. See also the exclusions from the gift card definitions previously described.

Restrictions on dormancy, inactivity, or service fees (12 CFR 1005.20(d)). No person may impose a dormancy, inactivity, or service fee with respect to a gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card, unless three conditions are satisfied:

- There has been no activity with respect to the certificate or card within the one-year period before the imposition of the fee,
- Only one such fee is assessed in a given calendar month, and
- Disclosures regarding dormancy, inactivity, or service fees are clearly and conspicuously stated on the certificate or card, and the person issuing or selling the certificate or card has provided these disclosures to the purchaser before the certificate or card is purchased. See the disclosure section, above, for additional information.

Expiration date restrictions (12 CFR 1005.20(e)). A gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card may not be sold or issued unless the expiration date of the funds underlying the certificate or card is no less than five years after the date of issuance (in the case of a gift certificate) or five years after the date of last load of funds (in the case of a store gift card or general-use prepaid card). In addition, information regarding whether funds underlying a certificate or card may expire must be clearly and conspicuously stated on the certificate or card and disclosed before purchase.

No person may sell or issue a certificate or card with an expiration date unless the person has established policies and procedures to provide consumers with a reasonable opportunity to purchase a certificate or card that has an expiration date that is at least five years from the date of purchase. A person who has established policies and procedures to prevent the sale of a certificate or card with an expiration date of less than five years from the date of purchase satisfies this requirement.

A certificate or card generally must include a disclosure alerting consumers to the difference between the certificate or card expiration date and the funds expiration date, if any, and stating that the consumer may contact the issuer for a replacement card. This disclosure must be stated with equal prominence and in close proximity to the certificate or card expiration date. Non-reloadable certificates or cards that bear an expiration date on the certificate or card that is at least seven years from the date of manufacture need not include this disclosure. See the disclosure section, above, for additional information.

To ensure that consumers are able to access the underlying funds for the full five-year period, fees may not be imposed for replacing an expired certificate or card if the underlying funds remain valid (unless the card has been lost or stolen). In lieu of sending a replacement certificate or card, issuers may remit, without charge, the remaining balance of funds to the consumer.

Effective date. The requirements of this section apply to any gift certificate, store gift card, or general-use prepaid card sold to a consumer on or after August 22, 2010, or provided to the consumer as a replacement for such certificate or card.

Other Requirements

Preauthorized Transfers (12 CFR 1005.10)

A preauthorized transfer may be either a credit to, or a debit from, an account.

Preauthorized transfers to a consumer's account. When an account is scheduled to be credited by a preauthorized EFT from the same payor at least once every 60 days, the financial institution must provide some form of notice to the consumer so that the consumer can find out whether or not the transfer occurred (12 CFR 1005.10(a)). The notice requirement will be satisfied if the payor provides notice to the consumer that the transfer has been initiated. If the payor does not provide notice, the financial institution must adopt one of three alternative procedures for giving notice:

- The financial institution may give the consumer oral or written notice within two business days after a preauthorized transfer occurs.
- The financial institution may give the consumer oral or written notice, within two business days after the preauthorized transfer was scheduled to occur, that the transfer did not occur.
- The financial institution may establish a readily available telephone line¹⁶ that the consumer may call to find out whether a preauthorized transfer has occurred. If the financial institution selects this option, the telephone number must be disclosed on the initial disclosures and on each periodic statement.

The financial institution need not use any specific language to give notice but may not simply provide the current account balance (staff commentary 1005.10(a)(1)–1). The financial institution may use different methods of notice for different types of preauthorized transfers and need not offer consumers a choice of notice methods (staff commentary 1005.10(a)(1)-2).

The financial institution that receives a preauthorized transfer must credit the consumer’s account as of the day the funds are received (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(3)).

Preauthorized transfers from a customer’s account. Preauthorized transfers from a consumer’s account may be authorized only by the consumer in writing and signed or similarly authenticated by the consumer (12 CFR 1005.10(b)). Signed, written authorizations may be provided electronically, subject to the E-SIGN (staff commentary 1005.10(b)–5). In all cases, the party that obtains the authorization from the consumer must provide a copy to the consumer. If a third-party payee fails to obtain an authorization in writing or fails to provide a copy to the consumer, the third-party payee, and not the financial institution, has violated Regulation E (staff commentary 1005.10(b)–2).

Stop payments. Consumers have the right to stop payment of preauthorized transfers from accounts. The consumer must notify the financial institution orally or in writing at any time up to three business days before the scheduled date of the transfer (12 CFR 1005.10(c)(1)). If the debit item is resubmitted, the institution must continue to honor the stop payment order (staff commentary 1005.10(c)(1)). The financial institution may require written confirmation of an oral stop payment order to be made within 14 days of the consumer’s oral notification. If the financial institution requires a written confirmation, it must inform the consumer at the time of the oral stop payment order that written confirmation is required and provide the address to which the confirmation should be sent. If the consumer fails to provide written confirmation, the oral stop payment order ceases to be binding after 14 days (12 CFR 1005.10(c)(2)).

¹⁶ The telephone line must be “readily available” so that consumers calling to inquire about transfers are able to have their calls answered reasonably promptly during normal business hours. During the initial call in most cases and within two business days after the initial call in all cases, the financial institution should be able to verify whether the transfer was received (staff commentary 1005.10(a)(1)–5). Within its primary service area, a financial institution must provide a local or toll-free telephone number (staff commentary 1005.10(a)(1)–7).

Notice of transfers varying in amount. If a preauthorized transfer from a consumer's account varies in amount from the previous transfer under the same authorization or the preauthorized amount, either the financial institution or the designated payee must send to the consumer a written notice, at least 10 days before the scheduled transfer date, of the amount and scheduled date of the transfer (12 CFR 1005.10(d)(1)). The consumer may elect to receive notice only when the amount varies by more than an agreed amount or falls outside a specified range (12 CFR 1005.10(d)(2)). The range must be an acceptable range that the consumer could reasonably anticipate (staff commentary 1005.10(d)(2)–1). The financial institution does not violate Regulation E if the payee fails to provide sufficient notice (staff commentary 1005.10(d)–1).

Compulsory use. The financial institution may not make it a condition for an extension of credit that repayment will be by means of preauthorized EFT, except for credit extended under an overdraft credit plan or extended to maintain a specified minimum balance in the consumer's account (12 CFR 1005.10(e)(1)). The financial institution may offer a reduced annual percentage rate (APR) or other cost-related incentive for an automatic payment feature as long as the creditor offers other loan programs for the type of credit involved (staff commentary 1005.10(e)(1)–1).¹⁷

Services Offered by Provider Not Holding Consumer's Account (12 CFR 1005.14)

A person who provides EFT services to a consumer but does not hold the consumer's account is a service provider subject to 12 CFR 1005.14 if the person issues an access device that the consumer can use to access the account and no agreement exists between the person and the account-holding financial institution. Transfers initiated by a service provider are often cleared through an ACH.

The responsibilities of the service provider are set forth in 12 CFR 1005.14(b)(1) and (2). The duties of the account-holding financial institution with respect to the service provider are found in 12 CFR 1005.14(c)(1) and (2).

Electronic Fund Transfer of Government Benefits (12 CFR 1005.15)

12 CFR 1005.15 contains the rules that apply to electronic benefit transfer programs. It provides that government agencies must comply with modified rules on the issuance of access devices, periodic statements, initial disclosures, liability for unauthorized use, and error resolution notices.

¹⁷ This section also prohibits anyone from requiring the establishment of an account for receipt of EFTs with a particular financial institution either as a condition of employment or the receipt of a government benefit (12 CFR 1005.10(e)(2)). The employer may, however, require direct deposit of salary, as long as the employee may choose the financial institution that will receive the direct deposit, or limit direct deposits to one financial institution, as long as the employee may choose to receive salary by other means (e.g., check or cash) (staff commentary 1005.10(e)(2)–1).

Relation to Other Laws (12 CFR 1005.12)

This section describes the relationship between the EFTA and the Truth in Lending Act. The section also provides procedures for states to apply for exemptions from the requirements of the EFTA or Regulation E for any class of EFTs within the state.

The EFTA governs the following:

- The issuance of debit cards and other access devices with EFT capabilities.
- The addition of EFT features to credit cards.
- The issuance of access devices whose only credit feature is a pre-existing agreement to extend credit to cover account overdrafts or to maintain a minimum account balance, or is an overdraft service.

The Truth in Lending Act governs all of the following:

- The issuance of credit cards as defined in Regulation Z.
- The addition of a credit feature to a debit card or other access device, other than an overdraft service.
- The issuance of dual debit/credit cards, except for access devices whose only credit feature is a pre-existing agreement to cover account overdrafts or to maintain a minimum account balance, or is an overdraft service.

The EFTA and Regulation E preempt inconsistent state laws but only to the extent of the inconsistency. The CFPB is given the authority to determine whether a state law is inconsistent. A financial institution, state, or other interested party may request the CFPB to make such a determination. A state law will not be deemed inconsistent if it is more protective of the consumer than the EFTA or Regulation E. Upon application, the CFPB has the authority to exempt any state from the requirements of the EFTA or the regulation for any class of EFTs within a state, with the exception of the civil liability provision.

Subpart B—Requirements for Remittance Transfers

Subpart B provides new disclosures, error resolution, and cancellation and refund rights to consumers who send remittance transfers to be received by other consumers or businesses in a foreign country.

Remittance Transfer Definitions (12 CFR 1005.30)

The definitions in subpart A (12 CFR 1005.2) also apply to subpart B unless specifically modified or limited by subpart B. The definitions in subpart B (12 CFR 1005.30) are applicable only to subpart B.

Agent is an agent, authorized delegate, or person affiliated with a remittance transfer provider, as defined under state or other applicable law, when that person acts for a remittance transfer provider. A person is not deemed a remittance transfer provider when it performs activities as an agent on behalf of a remittance transfer provider (staff commentary 1005.30(f)–1).

A business day is any day that the offices of a remittance transfer provider are open to the public for carrying on “substantially all business functions.”

Preauthorized remittance transfer is a remittance transfer authorized in advance to recur at substantially regular intervals.

Remittance transfer is an electronic transfer of funds requested by a consumer in a state to a designated recipient that is sent by a remittance transfer provider. The term applies whether or not the consumer holds an account and whether or not the transfer is an EFT, as section 1005.3(b) defines that term.

An electronic transfer of funds occurs when

- a provider makes an electronic book entry between different settlement accounts to make the remittance transfer.
- a payment is made under a bill-payment service available to a consumer via computer or other electronic means, except in certain circumstances when a check, draft, or similar paper instrument drawn on a consumer’s account under the bill-payment service is mailed abroad.

An electronic transfer of funds does not occur when a sender mails funds directly to a recipient, or if funds are provided to a courier for delivery to a foreign country (staff commentary 1005.30(e)–1).

Transactions of $15 or less, and certain transactions in connection with securities and commodities transfers that are excluded from the definition of an EFT, are not remittance transfers (12 CFR 1005.30(e)(2) and 12 CFR 1005.3(c)(4)).

Remittance transfers include the following:

- Transfers in cash or by another method conducted through a money transmitter or a financial institution.
- Consumer wire transfers conducted by a financial institution upon a sender’s request to wire money from the sender’s account to a designated recipient.
- An addition of funds to a prepaid card by a participant in a prepaid card program, such as a prepaid card issuer or its agent, that is directly engaged with the sender to add these funds, when the prepaid card is sent or was previously sent by a participant in the prepaid card program to a person in a foreign country, even if a sender retains the ability to withdraw such funds.
- International ACH transactions sent by the sender’s financial institution at the sender’s request.

- Online bill payments and other electronic transfers that a sender schedules in advance, including preauthorized remittance transfers, made by the sender’s financial institution at the sender’s request to a designated recipient (staff commentary 1005.30(e)–3).

Sender is a consumer in a state, who requests a remittance transfer primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. For account-based transfers, the location of the consumer’s account will determine whether the consumer is located in a state. For transfers not made from an account that are requested by telephone or electronically, the remittance transfer provider may make the determination of whether a consumer is located in a state based on information provided by the consumer and any records associated with the consumer (staff commentary 1005.30(g)–1).

A designated recipient is any person identified by the name provided by a sender to receive a remittance transfer at a location in a foreign country. A designated recipient can be either a natural person or an organization such as a corporation (staff commentary 1005.30(c)–1). Similar to the definition of “sender,” for transfers to a designated recipient’s account, where funds are to be received depends on where the recipient’s account is located.

Remittance transfer provider or provider is any person that provides remittance transfers for a consumer in the normal course of its business, regardless of whether the consumer holds an account with such person (12 CFR 1005.30(f)(1)).

Whether a person provides remittance transfers in the “normal course of business” depends on the facts and circumstances, including the total number and frequency of remittance transfers sent by the provider. The rule also provides a safe harbor for a person that provided 100 or fewer remittance transfers in the previous calendar year and provides 100 or fewer remittance transfers in the current calendar year (a total via all channels). Such a person is deemed not to be providing remittance transfers in the normal course of its business and is therefore not subject to the rule’s requirements. In determining whether a person qualifies for the safe harbor, the 100-transfer limit does not include any transfers that are excluded from the definition of “remittance transfer” such as small value transactions or certain securities and commodities transfers. If a person exceeds the safe harbor criteria and is providing remittance transfers for consumers in the normal course of its business, that person has a reasonable period of time, not to exceed six months, to begin complying with subpart B (12 CFR 1005.30(f)(2) and staff commentary 1005.30(f)–2).

Covered third-party fees mean any fees that are imposed on the remittance transfer by a person other than the remittance transfer provider that are not non-covered third-party fees. Fees imposed on the remittance transfer include only those fees that are charged to the designated recipient and are specifically related to the remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.30(h)–1). Examples include fees imposed on a remittance transfer by intermediary institutions in connection with a wire transfer (sometimes referred to as “lifting fees”) and fees imposed on a remittance transfer by an agent of the provider at pick-up for receiving the transfer (staff commentary 1005.30(h)–2).

Non-covered third-party fees mean any fees imposed by the designated recipient's institution for receiving a remittance transfer into an account except if the institution acts as an agent of the remittance transfer provider. For example, a fee imposed by the designated recipient's institution for receiving an incoming transfer into an account is a non-covered third-party fee if the institution is not acting as the agent of the remittance transfer provider. A designated recipient's account does not include a credit card, prepaid card, or a virtual account held by an Internet-based or mobile telephone company that is not a bank, savings association, credit union, or equivalent institution (staff commentary 1005.30(h)–3).

Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31)

Providers must give disclosures to senders at certain stages of the remittance transfer process. The rule requires providers to give senders a pre-payment disclosure when a transfer request is made, but prior to payment for the transfer. Providers must also provide a receipt when payment is made for the transfer. Model disclosure forms are provided in appendix A.

General Form of Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31(a))

Required disclosures or disclosures permitted by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii) or 12 CFR 1005.33(h)(3) must be clear and conspicuous and generally be provided to the sender in writing. Disclosures may contain commonly accepted or readily understandable abbreviations or symbols. Disclosures are clear and conspicuous if they are readily understandable and, in the case of written and electronic disclosures, the location and type size are readily noticeable to senders (12 CFR 1005.31(a) and staff commentaries 1005.31(a)(1)–1 and 1005.31(a)(2)–2).

Pre-payment disclosures may be provided electronically without E-SIGN consent, if the sender electronically requests the provider to send the transfer. The receipt for the transaction, however, may be provided electronically only with E-SIGN consent (12 CFR 1005.31(a)(2) and staff commentary 1005.31(a)(2)–1).

Written and electronic disclosures generally must be made in a retainable form. Pre-payment disclosures provided via mobile application or text message (to the extent permitted by the rule) need not be retainable. In some cases, disclosures may be made orally. For example, pre-payment disclosures may be disclosed orally if the transaction is conducted orally and entirely by telephone and the remittance transfer provider complies with certain other disclosure requirements. Oral disclosures are clear and conspicuous when they are given at a volume and speed sufficient for a sender to hear and comprehend them (12 CFR 1005.31(a)(2) and (a)(3) and staff commentary 1005.31(a)(1)-1).

Additional requirements apply for certain transfers scheduled at least three days before the date of transfer that are conducted orally over the telephone, or by mobile application or text messaging (12 CFR 1005.31(a)(3)(iv) and (a)(5)(iv)).

Disclosure Requirements (12 CFR 1005.31(b))

Disclosures provided as applicable. The required disclosures need to be provided only to the extent applicable. A remittance transfer provider may choose to omit an item of information if it is inapplicable to a particular transaction. Alternatively, a provider may disclose a term and state that an amount or item is “not applicable,” “N/A,” or “None” (staff commentary 1005.31(b)–1).

Substantially similar terms, language, and notices. Certain disclosures must be described using the terms set forth in 12 CFR 1005.31(b) or substantially similar terms. Terms may be more specific than those provided. For example, a remittance transfer provider sending funds may describe fees imposed by an agent at pick-up as “Pick-up Fees” in lieu of describing them as “Other Fees.” Foreign language disclosures must contain accurate translations of the required terms, language, and notices as well as the disclosures permitted by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii) and 12 CFR 1005.33(h)(3) (staff commentary 1005.31(b)–2).

Prepayment Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1))

A remittance transfer provider must provide the prepayment disclosure when the sender requests the remittance transfer, but prior to payment for the transfer. The provider must disclose

- the amount to be transferred (transfer amount), in both the currency in which the transfer is funded and the currency in which the recipient will receive the funds;
- front-end fees imposed by the provider, and any taxes collected on the remittance transfer by the provider (transfer fees and transfer taxes);
- total amount of the transaction (the sum of the transfer amount and front-end fees and taxes), using the term “total amount” or substantially similar term;
- the exchange rate,
- any covered third-party fees (other fees);
- the total amount to be received by the designated recipient (total amount of the transaction minus covered third-party fees), using the word “total to recipient” or substantially similar term; and
- a statement that non-covered third-party fees or taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a third person may apply to the remittance transfer and result in the designated recipient receiving less than the amount disclosed. In this statement, a provider also may, but is not required to, disclose in the currency in which the funds will be received any applicable non-covered third-party fees or taxes collected by a person other than the provider.

Transfer amount. Two transfer amount disclosures are required in the prepayment disclosures:

- The transfer amount in the currency in which the sender funds the remittance transfer to show the calculation of the total amount of the transaction.

- The transfer amount in the currency in which the funds will be made available to the designated recipient. This second transfer amount need not be disclosed if covered third-party fees are not imposed on the remittance transfer. The terms used to describe each transfer amount should be the same (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)–2).

Fees and taxes. Fees imposed and taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a provider must be disclosed in the currency in which the transaction is funded, as applicable. Taxes collected on the remittance transfer by the provider include taxes imposed on the remittance transfer by a state or other governmental body (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)–1(i)).

Applicable exchange rate. If the designated recipient will receive funds in a currency other than the currency in which the remittance transfer is funded, a remittance transfer provider must disclose the exchange rate to be used by the provider for the remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(iv)–1).

Rounding. The exchange rate disclosed for the remittance transfer is required to be rounded on the disclosure. The provider may round to two, three, or four decimal places, at its option, but this must be done consistently for each currency (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(iv)–2). The exchange rate used to calculate (a) the transfer amount, (b) the fees and taxes imposed on the remittance transfer by a person other than the provider, and (c) the amount received by the designated recipient, however, is prior to any rounding. If an exchange rate need not be rounded, a provider must use that exchange rate to calculate these disclosures¹⁸ (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)–3).

Exchange rate used. The exchange rate used by the provider for the remittance transfer need not have been set by the provider. For example, an exchange rate set by an intermediary institution and applied to the remittance transfer would be the exchange rate used for the remittance transfer, and must be disclosed by the provider (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(iv)–3).

Disclosure of covered third-party fees. Covered third-party fees must be disclosed in the currency in which the funds will be received by the designated recipient, using the applicable exchange rate, or an estimated exchange rate to the extent permitted, prior to any rounding of the exchange rate. If a provider does not have specific knowledge regarding the currency in which the funds will be received, the provider may rely on a sender's representation as to the currency in which funds will be received. If a sender does not know the currency in which funds will be received, the provider may assume that the currency in which funds will be received is the currency in which the remittance transfer is funded (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(vi)–1).

Amount received. The remittance transfer provider is required to disclose the amount that will be received by the designated recipient in the currency in which the funds will be received. The amount received must reflect the exchange rate, all fees imposed, and all taxes collected on the remittance transfer by the remittance transfer provider, as well as any covered third-party fees required to be disclosed. The disclosed amount received must be reduced by the amount of any fees or taxes (except non-covered third-party fees or taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a person other than the provider) imposed on the remittance transfer that affect the amount received, even if that amount is imposed or itemized separately from the transaction amount (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(vii)–1).

Required disclaimer when non-covered third-party fees and taxes collected by a person other than the provider may apply. The provider is required to include a disclaimer that non-covered third-party fees or taxes may apply to the remittance transfer if such taxes and fees apply to a particular transfer, or if the provider does not know whether they apply. This disclosure may only be provided to the extent applicable. For example, if the designated recipient’s institution is an agent of the provider and thus, non-covered third-party fees cannot apply to the transfer, the provider must disclose all fees imposed on the remittance transfer and may not provide the disclaimer regarding non-covered third-party fees (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(viii)–1).

Optional disclosure of non-covered third-party fees and taxes collected by a person other than the provider. The provider is permitted to disclose any non-covered third-party fees or taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a person other than the provider that will apply to a particular transaction if it knows the amount of such fees and taxes. Additionally, the provider is permitted to disclose an estimate of such fees and taxes, provided any estimates are based on a reasonable source of information (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(1)(viii)–2; 12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3) and staff commentary 1005.32(b)(3)–1).

Receipt (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(2))

When payment is made, a remittance transfer provider must provide a receipt to a sender disclosing all applicable information required in the pre-payment disclosure. The receipt must also disclose, as applicable,

- the date of availability of the funds (date available);
- the name and, if provided by the sender, the telephone number and/or address of the designated recipient (recipient);
- a statement about the sender’s error resolution and cancellation rights;
- specified contact information for the remittance transfer provider; and
- the transfer date for remittance transfers scheduled at least three business days in advance, or the first transfer in a series of preauthorized transfers.

The provider must also provide a statement that the sender can contact the state agency that licenses or charters the remittance transfer provider regarding the particular transfer (if applicable), and the CFPB for questions or complaints about the remittance transfer provider. The statement must include the name of the agency(ies), telephone number(s), and Web site address(es).

Date funds will be available. The provider must disclose the date in the foreign country on which the funds will be available to the designated recipient, using the term “Date Available” or a substantially similar term. If a provider does not know the exact date on which funds will be available, the provider may disclose the latest date on which the funds will be available. The provider may also disclose that funds “may be available sooner” or use a substantially similar term to inform senders that funds may be available to the designated recipient on a date earlier than the date disclosed (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(2)–1).

Agencies required to be disclosed. The provider must disclose information about a state agency that licenses or charters the provider with respect to the particular remittance transfer. If a financial institution is solely regulated by a Federal agency, the institution does not need to disclose information about a state agency. Information about the CFPB, however, must be provided whether or not the CFPB is the provider’s primary Federal regulator (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(2)–2). If a provider is licensed in multiple states, and the state agency that licenses the provider with respect to the remittance transfer is determined by the sender’s location, a provider may make the determination of the sender’s state based on information provided by the sender and on any records associated with the sender. A state-chartered bank must disclose information about the state agency that granted its charter, regardless of the location of the sender (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(2)–3).

Date of transfer on receipt. For remittance transfers scheduled at least three business days in advance, or the first transfer in a series of preauthorized transfers, the date of transfer for the remittance transfer must be disclosed on the receipt. Additional disclosures apply to subsequent preauthorized remittance transfers, as described below regarding 12 CFR 1005.36(d) (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(2)–4).

Cancellation disclosure. The provider may provide the three-business-day right to cancel notice (for transfers scheduled three or more business days before the transfer date), and the 30 minute right to cancel notice (for transfers scheduled fewer than three business days in advance), on the same disclosure, with a checkbox or other method to clearly designate the applicable cancellation period. For transfers scheduled three or more business days before the transfer date, the cancellation disclosure should be phrased and formatted in such a way that it is clear to the sender which cancellation period is applicable to the date of transfer disclosed on the receipt (staff commentary 1005.31(b)(2)-6).

Combined Disclosure (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3))

As an alternative to providing separate pre-payment and receipt disclosures, a remittance transfer provider may provide the information in the receipt in a single disclosure when the sender requests the remittance transfer, but prior to payment for the transfer. If this combined disclosure is provided and the sender completes the transfer, the remittance transfer provider must provide the sender with proof of payment when payment is made for the remittance transfer. For one-time transfers scheduled at least five business days in advance, or for the first in a series of preauthorized transfers, the provider may provide confirmation that the transaction has been scheduled in lieu of the proof of payment if payment is not processed at the time the remittance transfer is scheduled. No further proof of payment is required when payment is later processed.

Proof of payment/confirmation of scheduling. The proof of payment or confirmation of scheduling must be clear and conspicuous, provided in writing or electronically, and provided in a retainable form. The proof of payment for the transaction may be provided on the same piece of paper as the combined disclosure, or on a separate piece of paper (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3)(ii) and staff commentary 1005.31(b)(3)–1).

Long Form Error Resolution and Cancellation Notice (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(4))

At the sender's request, a remittance transfer provider is required promptly to provide a notice describing the sender's error resolution and cancellation rights, using language set forth in Model Form A-36 of appendix A, or substantially similar language. For any remittance transfer scheduled by the sender at least three business days before the date of the transfer, the description of the rights of the sender regarding cancellation must instead reflect the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.36(c).

Specific Format of Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31(c))

Grouping of disclosed information. Disclosures related to transfer amount, transfer fees and taxes imposed by the provider, and the total amount of the transaction generally must be grouped together. Similarly, disclosures related to the transfer amount in the currency to be made available to the designated recipient, covered third-party fees, taxes collected on the remittance by the provider, the total amount to be received by the designated recipient, and the disclaimer statement generally must be grouped together. Information is considered to be grouped together if multiple disclosures are in close proximity to one another and a sender can reasonably calculate the total amount of the transaction and the amount that will be received by the designated recipient (12 CFR 1005.31(c)(1) and staff commentary 1005.31(c)(1)–1).

Proximity of disclosed information. The exchange rate used for the remittance transfer generally must be disclosed in close proximity to the other information required in the pre-payment disclosure. Disclosures on error resolution and cancellation rights must generally be disclosed in close proximity to the other disclosures required on the receipt (12 CFR 1005.31(c)(2)).

Prominence and size of disclosures. Disclosures required by subpart B or permitted by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii) that are provided in writing or electronically, other than disclosures permitted to be provided via mobile application or text message, must be in a minimum of eight-point font and in equal prominence to each other. They must be provided on the front of the document on which the disclosures are printed (12 CFR 1005.31(c)(3)).

Segregation of disclosures from other information. Disclosures that are provided in writing or electronically, other than disclosures permitted to be provided via mobile application or text message, must be segregated from everything else on the document and must contain only information that is “directly related” to the disclosures (12 CFR 1005.31(c)(4)).

The following is “directly related” information:

- The date and time of the transaction;
- The sender’s name and contact information;
- The location at which the designated recipient may pick up the funds;
- The confirmation or other identification code;
- A company name and logo;
- An indication that a disclosure is or is not a receipt or other indicia of proof of payment;
- A designated area for signatures or initials;
- A statement that funds may be available sooner;
- Instructions regarding the retrieval of funds, such as the number of days the funds will be available to the recipient before they are returned to the sender;
- A statement that the provider makes money from foreign currency exchange; and
- Disclosure of any non-covered third-party fees and any taxes collected by a person other than the provider (staff commentary 1005.31(c)(4)–2).

Terms used in the case of estimated disclosures. A remittance transfer provider may provide estimates of the amounts required to be disclosed in the pre-payment disclosure, receipt, and combined disclosure to the extent permitted by 12 CFR 1005.32. An estimate must be described using the term “Estimated” or a substantially similar term in close proximity to the estimated term or terms. For example, a remittance transfer provider could describe an estimated disclosure as “Estimated Transfer Amount,” “Other Estimated Fees and Taxes,” or “Total to Recipient (Est.)” (12 CFR 1005.31(d) and staff commentary 1005.31(d)-1).

Request to send a remittance transfer. Determining whether a consumer has requested a remittance transfer depends on the facts and circumstances. A sender that asks a provider to send a remittance transfer, and provides transaction-specific information to the provider in order to send funds to a designated recipient, has requested a remittance transfer. On the other hand, a consumer who solely inquires about that day’s rates and fees to send to a particular country has not requested the provider to send a remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.31(e)–1).

When payment is made. Payment is made when a sender provides cash to the remittance transfer provider or when payment is authorized (staff commentary 1005.31(e)–2).

Disclosures related to mobile application and text message transactions. If a transaction is conducted entirely by telephone via mobile application or text message, a receipt may be mailed or delivered to the sender pursuant to the timing requirements for transfers conducted entirely by telephone (staff commentary 1005.31(e)–4).

Accuracy of disclosures—when payment is made. Disclosures required by subpart B or permitted by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii) must be accurate when a sender makes payment for the remittance transfer, except to the extent estimates are permitted. A remittance transfer provider is not required to guarantee the terms of the remittance transfer in the pre-payment disclosures for any specific period of time. If any of the pre-payment disclosures are no longer accurate when a sender makes payment for the remittance transfer, however, the provider must give new disclosures before accepting that payment (12 CFR 1005.31(f) and staff commentary 1005.31(f)-1).

Foreign Language Disclosures

Written and electronic disclosures required by subpart B or permitted by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii) generally must be provided in English and in each foreign language principally used to advertise, solicit, or market remittance transfer services at the office in which a sender conducts a transaction or asserts an error. Alternatively, written and electronic disclosures can be provided in English and in the foreign language primarily used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider, provided such foreign language is principally used to advertise, solicit, or market remittance transfers at the office in which a sender conducts a transaction or asserts an error. For transfers requested orally, by text message, or mobile application, the disclosures must be in the language primarily used by the sender to communicate with the transfer provider (12 CFR 1005.31(g)).

Number of foreign languages used in written disclosure. There is no limit to the number of languages that may be used on a single document, but such disclosures must be clear and conspicuous. If the remittance transfer provider chooses to provide written and electronic disclosures in English and in the foreign language primarily used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider, it may provide disclosures in a single document with both languages or in two separate documents with one document in English and the other document in the applicable foreign language (staff commentary 1005.31(g)-1).

Language “primarily” used. The language primarily used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider to conduct the transaction is the primary language used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider to convey the information necessary to complete the transaction. Similarly, the language primarily used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider to assert the error is the primary language used by the sender with the remittance transfer provider to provide the information required to assert an error (staff commentary 1005.31(g)-2).

Language “principally” used. Whether a foreign language is principally used by the remittance transfer provider to advertise, solicit, or market is determined from all relevant facts and circumstances, including the following:

- The frequency with which the foreign language is used in advertising, soliciting, or marketing of remittance transfer services at that office;
- The prominence of the advertising, soliciting, or marketing of remittance transfer services in that foreign language at that office; and
- The specific foreign language terms used in the advertising, soliciting, or marketing of remittance transfer services at that office (staff commentary 1005.31(g)(1)–1(i)).

Language used to advertise, solicit, or market. Any commercial message in a foreign language, appearing in any medium, that promotes directly or indirectly the availability of remittance transfer services constitutes advertising, soliciting, or marketing in such foreign language (staff commentary 1005.31(g)(1)–2).

Office. An office includes any physical location, telephone number, or Web site of a remittance transfer provider where a sender may conduct a remittance transfer or assert that an error has occurred in connection with a remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.31(g)(1)–3).

At the office. Any advertisement, solicitation, or marketing is considered to be made at the office in which a sender conducts a transaction or asserts an error if it is posted, provided, or made: at a physical office; on a Web site of a remittance transfer provider that may be used by senders to conduct remittance transfers or assert errors; during a telephone call with a remittance transfer provider that may be used by senders to conduct remittance transfers or assert errors; or via mobile application or text message if the mobile application or text message may be used by senders to conduct remittance transfers or assert errors (staff commentary 1005.31(g)(1)–4).

Estimates (12 CFR 1005.32)

Disclosures for which estimates may be used. Estimates may be used in certain circumstances for certain information required in pre-payment disclosures, receipts, and combined disclosures.

Temporary Exception for Insured Institutions (12 CFR 1005.32(a))

Estimates may be provided for certain amounts required to be disclosed in the pre-payment disclosures, receipts, and combined disclosures if

- the remittance transfer provider cannot determine the exact amounts for reasons beyond its control;
- the remittance transfer provider is an insured institution; and
- the remittance transfer is sent from the sender’s account with the institution.

The following amounts may be estimated:

- The exchange rate.
- The transfer amount, in the currency in which the designated recipient will receive the funds.
- Any covered third-party fees (other fees).
- The total amount to be received by the designated recipient (total amount of the transaction minus covered third-party fees), using the word “total to recipient” or a substantially similar term.

An insured institution means an insured depository institution (including an uninsured U.S. branch and agency of a foreign depository institution) and an insured credit union (12 CFR 1005.32(a)(3)).

Control. An insured institution cannot determine exact amounts “for reasons beyond its control” when a person other than the insured institution or with which the insured institution has no correspondent relationship sets the exchange rate or imposes a covered third-party fee required to be disclosed. For example, if an insured institution has a correspondent relationship with an intermediary financial institution in another country, and that intermediary institution sets the exchange rate or imposes a fee for remittance transfers sent from the insured institution to the intermediary institution, then this exception is not applicable and the insured institution must determine exact amounts for the disclosures because the determination of those amounts are not beyond the insured institution’s control (staff commentary 1005.32(a)(1)–1).

Covered third-party fees. An insured institution cannot determine the exact covered third-party fees to disclose if, for example, an intermediary institution with which the insured institution does not have a correspondent relationship, imposes a transfer or conversion fee. On the other hand, an insured institution can determine the exact covered third-party fees required to be disclosed if it has agreed upon the specific fees with an intermediary correspondent institution, and this correspondent institution is the only institution in the transmittal route to the designated recipient’s institution (staff commentaries 1005.32(a)(1)-2(ii) and 3(ii)).

The temporary exception is available for insured institutions until July 21, 2015.

Permanent Exception for Transfers to Certain Countries (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(1))

Estimates may be provided in pre-payment disclosures, receipts, or combined disclosures for transfers to certain countries if a remittance transfer provider cannot determine the exact amounts at the time the disclosure is required, either because

- the laws of the recipient country do not permit such a determination, or
- the method by which transactions are made in the recipient country does not permit such determination.

Laws of the recipient country. The laws of the recipient country do not permit a remittance transfer provider to determine exact amounts required to be disclosed when a law or regulation of the recipient country (e.g., currency exchange or certain privacy laws) do not allow the person making funds directly available to the designated recipient to determine the exact amounts at the time the disclosure is required. A typical example is when the law requires an exchange rate to be either

- set by the government of the recipient country after the remittance transfer provider sends the remittance transfer; or

- set when the designated recipient receives the funds (staff commentary 1005.32(b)(1)–1).

Method by which transactions are made in the recipient country. The method by which transactions are made in the recipient country does not permit a remittance transfer provider to determine exact amounts required to be disclosed when transactions are sent via international ACH on terms negotiated between the U.S. government and the recipient country’s government, under which the exchange rate is a rate set by the recipient country’s central bank or other governmental authority after the provider sends the remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.32(b)(1)–3).

Safe harbor list. The remittance transfer provider may rely on a list of countries published by the CFPB to determine whether estimates may be provided for the exchange rate, the transfer amount, covered third-party fees, and total amount to the recipient. If a country is on the CFPB’s list, the provider may give estimates under this section, unless it has information that a country on the list legally permits the provider to determine exact disclosure amounts. If a country does not appear on the CFPB’s list, the provider may provide estimates if it determines that the recipient country does not legally permit, or the method by which transactions are conducted in that country does not permit, the provider to determine exact disclosure amounts (staff commentaries 1005.32(b)(1)–5 and 1005.32(b)(1)–6).

Change in laws of recipient country. If the laws of a recipient country change such that a remittance transfer provider can determine exact amounts, the remittance transfer provider must begin providing exact amounts for the required disclosures as soon as reasonably practicable. If the laws of a recipient country change such that the provider cannot determine exact disclosure amounts, the provider may provide estimates even if that country does not appear on the list published by the CFPB (staff commentary 1005.32(b)(1)–7).

Permanent Exception for Transfers Scheduled Before the Date of Transfer (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(2))

For remittance transfers scheduled five or more business days before the date of the transfer, estimates may be provided for the exchange rate, transfer amount in the currency in which the funds will be received by the recipient, covered third-party fees (when the exchange rate is also estimated and affects such fees), and the total amount to recipient. The provider may also provide estimates for the transfer amount in the currency in which the remittance transfer is funded, front-end transfer fees and transfer taxes, and total amount of the transaction, if at the time the sender schedules such a transfer, the provider agrees to a sender’s request to fix the amount to be transferred in the currency in which the remittance transfer will be received and not the currency in which it is funded. For example, if a sender schedules a wire transfer to be sent from the sender’s bank account denominated in U.S. dollars but to be paid to the recipient in Euro transfer, the provider is allowed to estimate the transfer amount, front-end fees or taxes collected by the provider (if based on the amount transferred), and the total amount of the transaction. The provider is also allowed to estimate any covered third-party fees if the exchange rate is also estimated and the estimated exchange rate affects the amount of fees (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(2) and staff commentary 1005.32(b)(2)-1).

Permanent Exception for Optional Disclosure of Non-Covered Third-Party Fees and Taxes Collected on the Remittance Transfer by a Person Other Than the Provider (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3))

The remittance transfer provider may provide estimates (as part of the required disclaimer statement) for applicable non-covered third-party fees and taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a person other than the provider, if such estimates are based on reasonable sources of information. Reasonable sources of information may include, for example, information obtained from recent transfers to the same institution or the same country or region; fee schedules from the recipient institution; fee schedules from the recipient institution's competitors; surveys of recipient institutions' fees in the same country or region as the recipient institution; information provided or surveys of recipient institutions' regulators or taxing authorities; commercially or publicly available databases, services, or sources; and information or resources developed by international nongovernmental organizations or intergovernmental organizations (staff commentary 1005.32(b)(3)–1).

Bases for Estimates (12 CFR 1005.32(c) and (d))

If a remittance transfer provider qualifies for either the temporary or permanent exception, the rule allows two bases for estimating information in the disclosures:

- The estimates must generally be based on any of the approaches listed in the rule (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(1)), as described below.
- Alternatively, the estimates may be based on an approach that is not listed, provided that the designated recipient receives the same, or greater, amount of funds than the remittance transfer provider disclosed.

For remittance transfers scheduled five or more business days before the date of the transfer, estimates must be based on the exchange rate or, when applicable, the estimated exchange rate that the provider would have used or did use that day to provide disclosures to a sender requesting such a remittance transfer to be made on the same day.

Approaches listed in the rule

Estimates of the exchange rate. For remittance transfers sent via international ACH, the estimate must be based on the most recent exchange rate set by the recipient country's central bank or other governmental authority and reported by a Federal Reserve Bank. For any remittance transfers for which estimates are permitted, the exchange rate may be estimated based on the most recent publicly available wholesale exchange rate and any applicable spread that the remittance transfer provider or its correspondent typically applies for remittance transfers for that currency, or the most recent exchange rate offered or used by the person making funds available directly to the designated recipient or by the person setting the exchange rate (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(1)).

When the exchange rate for a remittance transfer sent via international ACH that qualifies for the permanent exception is set the following business day, the most recent exchange rate available for a transfer is the exchange rate set for the day that the disclosure is provided, i.e., the current business day's exchange rate (staff commentary 1005.32(c)(1)–1).

Publicly available. Examples of publicly available sources of information containing the most recent wholesale exchange rate for a currency include U.S. news services, such as Bloomberg, the Wall Street Journal, and the New York Times; a recipient country's national news services; and a recipient country's central bank or other government agency (staff commentary 1005.32(c)(1)–2).

Spread applied to the wholesale exchange rate. An estimate for disclosing the exchange rate based on the most recent publicly available wholesale exchange rate must also reflect any spread the remittance transfer provider typically applies to the wholesale exchange rate for remittance transfers for a particular currency (staff commentary 1005.32(c)(1)–3).

Most recent exchange rate. If the exchange rate with respect to a particular currency is published or provided multiple times throughout the day because the exchange rate fluctuates throughout the day, a remittance transfer provider may use any exchange rate available on that day to determine the most recent exchange rate (staff commentary 1005.32(c)(1)–4).

Estimates of the transfer amount and covered third-party fees in the currency in which funds will be received by the designated recipient. Estimates of the transfer amount in the currency in which the funds will be received by the designated recipient as well as covered third-party fees imposed as a percentage of the amount transferred must be based on the estimated exchange rate, prior to any rounding (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(2) and (3)(i)).

Estimates of the fees imposed by intermediary or final institution. Estimates for covered third-party fees imposed by intermediary or final institutions that act as intermediaries or by the designated recipient's institution must be based on the remittance transfer provider's most recent remittance transfer to the designated recipient's institution, or a representative transmittal route identified by the remittance transfer provider (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(3)(ii)).

Estimates of the amount of currency that will be received by the designated recipient. Estimates for the amount of currency that will be received by the designated recipient must be based on the estimates provided in accordance with 12 CFR 1005.31(c)(1) through (3) as applicable for the transaction (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(4)).

Procedures for Resolving Errors (12 CFR 1005.33)

Definition of Error (12 CFR 1005.33(a))

In connection with an error asserted under 12 CFR 1005.33, the term error means

- generally, an incorrect amount paid by a sender in connection with a remittance transfer;

- a computational or bookkeeping error made by the remittance transfer provider relating to the remittance transfer;
- the failure, generally, to make available to a designated recipient the amount of currency required to be disclosed under 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(vii) and stated in the disclosure provided to the sender unless the disclosure stated an estimate of the amount paid and the difference results from application of the actual exchange rate, fees, and taxes, rather than any estimated amount;
- the failure, generally, to make funds available to a designated recipient by the date of availability stated in the disclosure provided to the sender; or
- the sender's request for documentation required by 12 CFR 1005.31 or for additional information or clarification concerning a remittance transfer, including a request a sender makes to determine whether an error exists. (See more detailed discussion of errors and exceptions below.)

Error due to incorrect amount of currency paid by sender. This type of error covers circumstances in which a sender pays an amount that differs from the total amount of the transaction, including fees imposed in connection with the transfer, stated in the receipt or combined disclosure provided. There is no error, however, if the disclosure appropriately stated an estimate of the amount paid by the sender and the difference results from application of the actual exchange rate, fees, and taxes, rather than any estimated amounts (12 CFR 1005.33(a)(1)(i) and staff commentary 1005.33(a)–1).

Error due to incorrect amount of currency received. This type of error covers circumstances in which the designated recipient receives an amount of currency that differs from the amount of currency identified on the disclosures provided to the sender. It also covers circumstances in which the remittance transfer provider transmits an amount that differs from the amount requested by the sender. There are three general exceptions to this. There is no error if

- the disclosure appropriately, under one of the two exceptions under 12 CFR 1005.32, stated an estimate of the amount of currency to be received and the difference results from application of the actual exchange rate, fees, and taxes, rather than any estimated amounts; or
- the failure was caused by extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider's control; or
- the difference results from the application of non-covered third-party fees or taxes collected on the remittance transfer by a person other than the provider and the provider provided the required disclaimer.

A designated recipient may receive an amount of currency that differs from the amount of currency disclosed, and an error has occurred if, for example,

- an exchange rate other than the disclosed rate is applied to the remittance transfer, or
- the provider provides the sender a receipt stating an amount of currency that will be received by the designated recipient, which does not reflect additional covered third-party taxes that are imposed by the receiving agent in the destination country. If the designated recipient, however, will receive less than the amount of currency disclosed on the receipt due solely to the additional foreign taxes that the provider was not required to disclose, no error has occurred (staff commentary 1005.33(a)–3(ii)).

Exception for extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider’s control. If the provider fails to make the amount of currency disclosed available to the designated recipient, such an occurrence is not an error if such failure was caused by extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider’s control that could not have been reasonably anticipated. Examples of extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider’s control that could not have been reasonably anticipated include war or civil unrest, natural disaster, garnishment or attachment of some of the funds after the transfer is sent, and government actions or restrictions that could not have been reasonably anticipated by the remittance transfer provider, such as the imposition of foreign currency controls or foreign taxes unknown at the time the receipt or combined disclosure is provided (staff commentary 1005.33(a)–4). Note that foreign taxes are not required to be disclosed. However, if a provider, believing that there is no applicable foreign tax, elects not to provide a disclaimer pursuant to 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii), no error has occurred if a new tax is imposed that could not have been reasonably anticipated at the time the receipt or combined disclosure was required to be given.

Error due to failure to make funds available by disclosed date of availability. This error covers disputes about the failure to make remittance transfer funds available to a designated recipient by the disclosed date of availability. Examples of errors for failure to make funds available by the disclosed date of availability include late or non-delivery of a remittance transfer, delivery of funds to the wrong account, the fraudulent pick-up of a remittance transfer in a foreign country by a person other than the designated recipient, and the recipient agent or institution’s retention of the remittance transfer, instead of making the funds available to the designated recipient.

There is no error if funds were not made available by the disclosed date due to

- extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider’s control that could not have been reasonably anticipated; or
- delays related to the remittance transfer provider’s fraud screening procedures or in accordance with the Bank Secrecy Act, Office of Foreign Assets Control requirements, or similar laws or requirements; or
- the remittance transfer was made with fraudulent intent by the sender or any person acting in concert with the sender (i.e., friendly fraud); or
- the sender provided the remittance transfer provider an incorrect account number or recipient institution identifier for the designated recipient’s account or institution, and the remittance transfer provider
 - can demonstrate that the sender provided an incorrect account number or recipient institution identifier to the provider in connection with the remittance transfer;
 - prior to or when sending the transfer, used reasonably available means to verify (for recipient institution identifier errors only) that the recipient institution identifier

- provided by the sender corresponded to the recipient institution name provided by the sender;
- provided notice to the sender (prior to payment for the remittance transfer) that, in the event the sender provided an incorrect account number or recipient institution identifier, the sender could lose the transfer amount;
 - the incorrect account number or recipient institution identifier resulted in the deposit of the remittance transfer into a customer’s account that is not the designated recipient’s account; and
 - promptly used reasonable efforts to recover the amount that was to be received by the designated recipient.

Account number or recipient institution identifier. Account number and recipient institution identifier refer to alphanumeric account or institution identifiers other than names or addresses, such as account numbers, routing numbers, Canadian transit numbers, International Bank Account Numbers, Business Identifier Codes and other similar account or institution identifiers used to route a transaction. Designated recipient’s account refers to an asset account but does not include a credit card, prepaid card, or a virtual account held by an Internet-based or mobile telephone company that is not a bank, savings association, credit union, or equivalent institution (staff commentary 1005.33(a)–8).

Reasonable methods of verification. Reasonably available means may include accessing a directory of Business Identifier Codes and verifying that the code provided by the sender matches the provided institution’s name, and, if possible, the specific branch or location provided by the sender. A provider may also rely on other commercially available databases or directories to check other recipient institution identifiers. The requirement to verify would be met if no reasonably available means exist to verify the accuracy of the recipient institution identifier if the other conditions are satisfied (staff commentary 1005.33(h)–1).

Reasonable efforts. Whether a provider has used reasonable efforts does not depend on whether the provider is ultimately successful in recovering the amount that was to be received by the designated recipient. If the remittance transfer provider is requested to provide documentation or other supporting information in order for the pertinent institution or authority to obtain the proper authorization for the return of the incorrectly credited amount, reasonable efforts to recover the amount include timely provision of any such documentation to the extent that it is available and permissible under law (staff commentary 1005.33(h)–2).

Promptness of Reasonable Efforts. Whether a provider acts promptly to use reasonable efforts depends on the facts and circumstances. For example, if before the disclosed date that the funds will be available to the recipient, the sender informs the provider that the sender provided a wrong account number, the provider will have acted promptly if it attempts to contact the recipient’s institution before the date of availability (staff commentary 1005.33(h)–3).

Failure to make funds available by disclosed date of availability due to circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider’s control. A remittance transfer provider’s failure to deliver or transmit a remittance transfer by the disclosed date of availability is not an error if such failure was caused by extraordinary circumstances outside the remittance transfer provider's control that could not have been reasonably anticipated. Examples of such circumstances include war or civil unrest, natural disaster, garnishment or attachment of funds after the transfer is sent, and government actions or restrictions that could not have been reasonably anticipated by the remittance transfer provider, such as the imposition of foreign currency controls (staff commentary 1005.33(a)–6).

Issues that are not considered errors under subpart B

The following are not errors:

- An inquiry about the status of a remittance transfer, except when the funds from the transfer were not made available to a designated recipient by the disclosed date of availability;
- A request for information for tax or other recordkeeping purposes;
- A change requested by the designated recipient that the remittance transfer provider or others involved in the remittance transfer decide to accommodate; or
- A change in the amount or type of currency received by the designated recipient from the amount or type of currency stated in the disclosure provided to the sender if the remittance transfer provider relied on information provided by the sender (12 CFR 1005.33(a)(2) and staff commentary 1005.33(a)–10)).

Notice of Error From Sender (12 CFR 1005.33(b))

Person asserting or discovering error. The error resolution procedures apply only when a notice of error is received from the sender (staff commentary 1005.33(b)–1).

Timing of error notice. The notice of error must be received by the remittance transfer provider within 180 days of the disclosed date of availability of the remittance transfer (12 CFR 1005.33(b)(1)). But if the notice of error is based on documentation, additional information, or clarification provided by the remittance transfer provider, then notice is timely if it is received by the remittance transfer provider by the later of

- 180 days after the disclosed date of availability of the remittance transfer, or
- 60 days after the provider sent the documentation, information, or clarification that had been requested (12 CFR 1005.33(b)(2)).

Content of error notice. Errors may be reported orally or in writing. The notice of error is effective so long as the remittance transfer provider is able to identify the following:

- The sender's name and telephone number or address (or e-mail address);
- The recipient's name and if known, telephone number and address;
- The remittance transfer to which the notice of error applies; and

- Why the sender believes an error exists, and if possible, the type, date, and amount of the error, except for errors involving requests for documentation, additional information, or clarification.

For example, the sender could provide the confirmation number or code that would be used by the designated recipient to pick up the transfer, or other identification number or code supplied by the remittance transfer provider in connection with the transfer, if the number or code is sufficient for the remittance transfer provider to identify the sender (and contact information), designated recipient, and the transfer in question (staff commentary 1005.33(b)–2 and 3).

Effect of late notice. A remittance transfer provider is not required to comply with the error resolution requirements for any notice of error from a sender that is received more than 180 days from the disclosed date of availability of the remittance transfer or, if applicable, more than 60 days after a provider sent documentation, additional information, or clarification requested by the sender (staff commentary 1005.33(b)–4).

Notice of error provided to agent. A notice of error provided by a sender to an agent of the remittance transfer provider is deemed to be received by the provider when the agent receives it (staff commentary 1005.33(b)–5).

Consumer notice of error resolution rights. In addition to the requirement to provide an abbreviated notice of the consumer’s error resolution rights on the receipt or combined notice, the remittance transfer provider must make available to the sender, upon request, a notice providing a full description of the sender’s error resolution rights, using language set forth in appendix A (Model Form A-36) or substantially similar language (staff commentary 1005.33(b)–6).

Time Limits and Extent of Investigation (12 CFR 1005.33(c))

A remittance transfer provider must investigate promptly and determine whether an error occurred within 90 days of receiving a notice of error. The remittance transfer provider must report the results to the sender within three business days after completing its investigation and include notice of any remedies available for correcting any error that the provider determines has occurred. If the remittance transfer provider determines during its investigation that an error occurred as described by the sender, the remittance provider may inform the sender of its findings either orally or in writing. If the provider determines that no error or a different error occurred, however, the provider must provide a written explanation of the findings and note the sender’s right to request the documents on which the provider relied in making its determination (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–1).

Remedies

If the remittance transfer provider determines an error (as defined in subpart B) occurred and the error relates to

- an incorrect amount paid by the sender,

- a computational or bookkeeping error made by the remittance transfer provider, or
- failure to make the amount of currency stated in the disclosures available to the designated recipient, the provider must either

- refund the amount of funds provided by the sender in connection with a remittance transfer which was not properly transmitted, or the amount appropriate to resolve the error; or
- make available to the designated recipient the amount appropriate to resolve the error, without additional cost to the sender or the designated recipient (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(i)).

If the error relates to a sender's request for documentation or additional information or clarification to determine whether an error exists, the remittance transfer provider must provide the requested information (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(iv)).

Remedy in the case of failure to make funds available by the disclosed date of availability.

- When failure to make funds available by the disclosed date of availability occurred due to incorrect or insufficient information provided by the sender,
 - the remittance transfer provider is required to refund to the sender the amount of funds that was not properly transmitted, or the amount appropriate to resolve the error, within three business days of providing the written explanation of findings. However, the provider may agree to the sender's request, upon receiving the results of the error investigation, to apply the funds towards a new remittance transfer, rather than be refunded, if the provider has not yet processed a refund.
 - in such an instance, the provider may deduct from the amount refunded or applied towards a new transfer any fees actually imposed by a person other than the provider (except those that will ultimately be refunded to the provider) on or, to the extent not prohibited by law, taxes actually collected on the remittance transfer as part of the first unsuccessful remittance transfer attempt and inform the sender of the deduction and reason.
 - the agreement to apply the funds towards a new transfer is treated as a new remittance transfer and the provider must provide new disclosures in accordance with 12 CFR 1005.31 and all other applicable provisions of subpart B (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(iii)) and staff commentaries 1005.33(c)–11 and 12).
- All other instances of failure to make funds available by the disclosed date of availability
 - as applicable, the remittance transfer provider must either
 - refund to the sender, the amount of funds which was not properly transmitted or the amount appropriate to resolve the error; or
 - make available to the designated recipient the amount appropriate to resolve the error without additional cost to the sender or to the designated recipient; and
 - refund to the sender any fees imposed and, to the extent not prohibited by law, taxes collected on the remittance transfer (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(ii)).

Designation of requested remedy. The provider may request that the sender indicate the preferred remedy when providing the notice of the error. If the provider does so, it should indicate that a resend remedy may be unavailable if the error occurred because the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information. If the sender does not indicate the desired remedy at the time of providing notice of error, the remittance transfer provider must notify the sender of any available remedies in the written explanation of findings (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–3).

Default remedy (except when the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information). The provider may set a default remedy that the remittance transfer provider will use if the sender does not designate a remedy within a reasonable time after receiving the written explanation of findings. If a default remedy is provided, the remittance transfer provider must correct the error within one business day or as soon as reasonably practicable, after the reasonable time for the sender to designate the remedy has passed. For purposes of designating a remedy, 10 days is deemed a reasonable time (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–4).

Amount appropriate to resolve the error. The amount appropriate to resolve the error is the specific amount of transferred funds that should have been received if the remittance transfer had taken place without error. It does not include consequential damages (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–5).

Form of refund. When a refund may be issued, a remittance transfer provider may generally, at its discretion, issue a refund either in cash or in the same form of payment that was initially provided by the sender for the remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–6).

Remedies for incorrect amount paid. If an error relates to the payment of an incorrect amount, the sender may request a refund of the amount necessary to resolve the error or request that the remittance transfer provider make the amount necessary to resolve the error available to the designated recipient at no additional cost (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–7).

Correction of an error if funds were not available by disclosed date. If the remittance transfer provider determines an error related to failure to make funds available by the disclosed date occurred, it must correct the error and refund any fees imposed by the provider or a third party involved in sending the transfer, such as an intermediary bank involved in sending a wire transfer or the institution from which the funds are picked up (unless the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information to the remittance transfer provider in connection with the remittance transfer) (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–8).

Charges for error resolution. If an error occurred, whether as alleged or in a different amount or manner, the remittance transfer provider may not impose a charge related to any aspect of the error resolution process (including charges for documentation or investigation) (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–9).

Correction without investigation. A remittance transfer provider may correct an error, without investigation, in the amount or manner alleged by the sender, or otherwise determined, to be in error, but must comply with all other applicable requirements (staff commentary 1005.33(c)–10).

Procedures if Remittance Transfer Provider Determines No Error or Different Error Occurred (12 CFR 1005.33(d))

If the remittance transfer provider determines that no error occurred, or that an error occurred in a manner or amount different from that described by the sender, its report of the results of the investigation must include a written explanation of the provider's findings and shall note the sender's right to request the documents that the provider relied upon in making its determination. The explanation should also address the specific complaint of the sender. Upon the sender's request, the remittance transfer provider must also promptly provide copies of the documents on which it relied to make its error determination (12 CFR 1005.33(d)).

Error different from that alleged. If a remittance transfer provider determines that an error occurred in a manner or amount different from that described by the sender, it must comply with the requirements of both 12 CFR 1005.33(c) (concerning the investigation) and (d) (procedures if remittance transfer provider determines no error or different error occurred), as applicable. The provider may give the notice of correction and the explanation separately or in a combined form (staff commentary 1005.33(d)–1).

Reassertion of Error (12 CFR 1005.33(e))

A remittance transfer provider that has fully complied with the error resolution requirements of this section generally has no further responsibilities should the sender later reassert the same error, except in the case of an error asserted by the sender following receipt of additional information requested from the provider (12 CFR 1005.33(e)).

Withdrawal of error; right to reassert. The remittance transfer provider has no further error resolution responsibilities if the sender voluntarily withdraws the notice alleging an error. A sender who has withdrawn an allegation of error has the right to reassert the allegation unless the remittance transfer provider had already complied with all of the error resolution requirements before the allegation was withdrawn. The sender must do so, however, within the original 180-day period from the disclosed date of availability or, if applicable, the 60-day period for a notice of error based on documentation or clarification that the sender previously requested (staff commentary 1005.33(e)–1).

Relation to Other Laws (12 CFR 1005.33(f))

Relation to Regulation E for incorrect EFTs from a sender's account (12 CFR 1005.11).

If an alleged error involves an incorrect EFT from a sender's account in connection with a remittance transfer, and the sender provides a notice of error to the account-holding institution, the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.11 governing error resolution apply if the account-holding institution is not also the remittance transfer provider. However, if the remittance transfer provider is also the account-holding institution, then the error resolution provisions of 12 CFR 1005.33 apply when the sender provides such notice of error (12 CFR 1005.33(f)(1)).

Concurrent error obligations. A remittance transfer provider that holds the sender's account may have error obligations under both 12 CFR 1005.11 and 12 CFR 1005.33, depending on the relationship with the sender and the nature of the error. For example, if a sender asserts an error under 12 CFR 1005.11 with a remittance transfer provider that holds the sender's account, and the error is not also an error under 12 CFR 1005.33 (such as the omission of an EFT on a periodic statement), then the error resolution provisions of 12 CFR 1005.11 exclusively apply to the error. However, if a sender asserts an error under 12 CFR 1005.33 with a remittance transfer provider that holds the sender's account and the error is also an error under 12 CFR 1005.11 (such as when the amount the sender requested to be deducted by EFT from the sender's account at a financial institution and sent for the remittance transfer differs from the amount that was actually deducted from the account and sent), then the error resolution provisions of 12 CFR 1005.33 exclusively apply to the error (staff commentary 1005.33(f)-1).

Relation to Truth in Lending Act and Regulation Z. If an alleged error involves an incorrect extension of credit in connection with a remittance transfer, an incorrect amount received by the designated recipient that is an extension of credit for property or services not delivered as agreed, or the failure to make funds available by the disclosed date of availability that is an extension of credit for property or services not delivered as agreed, and the sender provides a notice of error to the creditor extending the credit, the error resolution provisions of Regulation Z (12 CFR 1026.13) apply to the creditor, rather than the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.33, even if the creditor is the remittance transfer provider. If the creditor is the remittance transfer provider, however, the error resolution requirements of 12 CFR 1005.33(b) will apply instead of 12 CFR 1026.13(b). If the sender instead provides a notice of error to the remittance transfer provider that is not also the creditor, then the error resolution provisions of 12 CFR 1005.33 apply to the remittance transfer provider (12 CFR 1005.33(f)(2)).

Unauthorized remittance transfers. If an alleged error involves an unauthorized EFT for payment in connection with a remittance transfer, 12 CFR 1005.6 and 12 CFR 1005.11 apply with respect to the account-holding institution. If an alleged error involves an unauthorized use of a credit account for payment in connection with a remittance transfer, the provisions of Regulation Z, 12 CFR 1026.12(b), if applicable, and 12 CFR 1026.13, apply with respect to the creditor (12 CFR 1005.33(f)(3)).

Holder in due course. The error resolution provisions in subpart B do not affect a sender's rights to assert claims and defenses against a card issuer concerning property or services purchased with a credit card under Regulation Z, 12 CFR 1026.12(c)(1), as applicable (staff commentary 1005.33(f)-2).

Assertion of the same error with multiple parties. If a sender receives credit to correct an error of an incorrect amount paid in connection with a remittance transfer from either the remittance transfer provider or account-holding institution (or creditor) and subsequently asserts the same error with another party, that party has no further responsibilities to investigate the error if the error has been corrected. In addition, nothing prevents an account-holding institution or creditor from reversing amounts it has previously credited to correct an error if a sender receives more than one credit (e.g., full reimbursement from each of multiple parties) to correct the same error (staff commentary 1005.33(f)-3).

Error Resolution Standards and Recordkeeping Requirements (12 CFR 1005.33(g))

Compliance program. A remittance transfer provider must develop and maintain written policies and procedures that are designed to ensure compliance with the error resolution requirements applicable to remittance transfers (12 CFR 1005.33(g)(1)).

Policies and procedures must address the retention of records related to error investigations (12 CFR 1005.33(g)(2)).

Record retention requirements. Remittance transfer providers are subject to the record retention requirements under subpart A (12 CFR 1005.13 and staff commentary 1005.33(g)-1). See also, Administrative Enforcement and Record Retention section below.

Procedures for Cancellation and Refund of Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.34)

Sender's Right of Cancellation and Refund

Except for certain remittance transfers scheduled in advance subject to 12 CFR 1005.36(c), a remittance transfer provider generally must comply with any oral or written request to cancel a remittance transfer from the sender that is received by the provider no later than 30 minutes after the sender makes payment in connection with the remittance transfer if

- the request to cancel enables the provider to identify the sender's name and address or telephone number and the particular transfer to be cancelled; and
- the transferred funds have not been picked up by the designated recipient or deposited into an account of the designated recipient (12 CFR 1005.34(a) and staff commentary 1005.34(a)-3).

Content of cancellation request. A request to cancel a remittance transfer is valid so long as the remittance transfer provider is able to identify the remittance transfer in question (staff commentary 1005.34(a)-1).

Notice of cancellation right. A remittance transfer provider is required to include an abbreviated notice of the sender's right to cancel a remittance transfer on the receipt or combined disclosure provided to the sender. In addition, the remittance transfer provider must make available to a sender upon request, a notice providing a full description of the right to cancel a remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.34(a)–2). See also Model Form 36 in appendix A.

Cancellation request provided to agent. A cancellation request provided by a sender to an agent of the remittance transfer provider is deemed to be received by the provider when received by the agent (staff commentary 1005.34(a)–4).

Time limits and refund requirements. If a sender provides a timely request to cancel a remittance transfer, a remittance transfer provider must, within three business days of receiving the request, refund all funds provided by the sender in connection with the remittance transfer, including any fees and, to the extent not prohibited by law, taxes that have been imposed for the transfer, whether the fee or tax was assessed by the provider or a third party, such as an intermediary institution, the agent or bank in the recipient country, or a state or other governmental body (12 CFR 1005.34(b) and staff commentary 1005.34(b)–2).

Form of refund. A remittance transfer provider generally may issue a refund either in cash or in the same form of payment that was initially provided by the sender for the remittance transfer (staff commentary 1005.34(b)–1).

Acts of Agents (12 CFR 1005.35)

A remittance transfer provider is strictly liable for a violation by an agent, when such agent acts on its behalf. Remittance transfer providers must comply with the requirements of subpart B, even if an agent or other person performs functions for the remittance transfer provider, and regardless of whether the provider has an agreement with a third party that transfers or otherwise makes funds available to a designated recipient (12 CFR 1005.35 and staff commentary 1005.35–1).

Agencies responsible for enforcing the requirements of EFTA section 919 and subpart B of Regulation E may consider, in any action or other proceeding against a remittance transfer provider, the extent to which the provider had established and maintained policies or procedures for compliance, including policies, procedures, or other appropriate oversight measures designed to assure compliance by an agent or authorized delegate acting for such provider (EFTA section 919(f)(2)).

Transfers Scheduled Before the Date of Transfer (12 CFR 1005.36)

Applicability of subpart B. The requirements set forth in subpart B apply to remittance transfers scheduled before the transfer date, unless modified by 12 CFR 1005.36. For example, the foreign language disclosure requirements apply to disclosures provided in connection with transfers scheduled in advance (staff commentary 1005.36–1).

Timing (12 CFR 1005.36(a))

For one-time transfers scheduled five or more business days in advance or for the first in a series of transfers authorized in advance to recur at substantially regular intervals (preauthorized remittance transfers), the remittance transfer provider must provide either a pre-payment disclosure and a receipt or a combined disclosure at the time the sender requests the transfer but prior to payment, as required by 12 CFR 1005.31(b). If any of the disclosures provided contain estimates, the provider must mail or deliver an additional receipt no later than one business day after the date of the transfer. If the transfer involves the transfer of funds from the sender's account held by the provider, this additional receipt may be provided on or with the next periodic statement for that account, or within 30 days after the date of the transfer if a periodic statement is not provided.

Subsequent preauthorized remittance transfers. For each subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer, the provider must provide an updated receipt if any of the information (other than temporal disclosures on the receipt of the date in the foreign country on which the funds will be available, as well as the scheduled date of a transfer scheduled in advance) on the most recent receipt is no longer accurate for reasons other than as permitted in the estimates provisions of 12 CFR 1005.32. The receipt must clearly and conspicuously indicate that it contains updated disclosures and must be mailed or delivered to the sender within a reasonable time prior to the scheduled date of the next subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer. If the disclosure is mailed no later than 10 business days or delivered by hand or electronically no later than five business days before the scheduled date of the transfer, the provider is deemed to have provided the disclosure within a reasonable time (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(i) and staff commentaries 1005.36(a)(2)–1, 2, and 3).

For each subsequent preauthorized transfer, the remittance transfer provider must mail or deliver to the sender a receipt no later than one business day after the date of the transfer. This is not required in situations when an updated receipt that contained no estimates was provided prior to the scheduled date of the next subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer. If the remittance transfer involves the transfer of funds from the sender's account held by the provider, the receipt may be provided on or with the next periodic statement for that account, or within 30 days after the date of the transfer if a periodic statement is not provided (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(ii)).

Accuracy (12 CFR 1005.36(b))

For a one-time transfer scheduled five or more business days in advance or for the first in a series of preauthorized remittance transfers, disclosures provided must be accurate when a sender makes payment except to the extent estimates are permitted. Unless estimates are permitted, for each subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer, the most recent receipt provided must generally be accurate as of when such transfer is made except to the extent estimates are permitted. Temporal elements in the disclosures like the date of availability and the transfer date must only be accurate if the transfer is the first transfer after the disclosure was provided (12 CFR 1005.36(b)).

Cancellation (12 CFR 1005.36(c))

Cancellation of transfers scheduled at least three business days in advance. A remittance transfer provider must comply with any oral or written request to cancel any remittance transfer scheduled by the sender at least three business days before the date of the remittance transfer if the request to cancel

- enables the provider to identify the sender’s name and address or telephone number and the particular transfer to be canceled; and
- is received by the provider at least three business days before the scheduled date of the remittance transfer (12 CFR 1005.36(c)).

The right of cancellation applies when a remittance transfer is scheduled by the sender at least three business days before the date of the transfer, regardless of whether the sender schedules a preauthorized remittance transfer or a one-time transfer. For transfers scheduled less than three business days before the date of transfer, the 30 minute cancellation deadline in 12 CFR 1005.34 applies (staff commentary 1005.36(c)–1).

Canceled preauthorized remittance transfers. For preauthorized remittance transfers, the provider must assume the request to cancel applies to all future preauthorized remittance transfers, unless the sender specifically indicates that it should apply only to the next scheduled transfer (staff commentary 1005.36(c)–2).

Concurrent cancellation obligations. A financial institution that is also a remittance transfer provider may have both stop payment obligations under 12 CFR 1005.10 and cancellation obligations under 12 CFR 1005.36. If a sender cancels a remittance transfer under 12 CFR 1005.36 with a remittance transfer provider that holds the sender’s account, and the transfer is a preauthorized transfer, 12 CFR 1005.36 applies exclusively (staff commentary 1005.36(c)–3).

Additional Requirements for Subsequent Preauthorized Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.36(d))

Disclosure requirement. For any subsequent transfer in a series of preauthorized remittance transfers, the following must be disclosed by the remittance transfer provider:

- The date of the subsequent transfer using the term “Future Transfer Date” or a substantially similar term,
- A statement of the sender’s cancellation rights, and

- The name, telephone number(s), and Web site of the remittance transfer provider (12 CFR 1005.36(d)(1)).

The disclosures must be provided no more than 12 months, and no less than five business days prior to, the date of the subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer. For any subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer for which the date of transfer is four or fewer business days after the date payment is made, the disclosure must generally be provided on or with the receipt for the initial transfer in that series (12 CFR 1005.36(d)(2)).

A remittance transfer provider has some flexibility in determining how and when the disclosures required by 12 CFR 1005.36(d)(1) may be provided to senders. They may be provided as a separate disclosure, or on or with any other disclosure required by subpart B related to the same series of preauthorized remittance transfers, provided that the disclosure and timing requirements in 12 CFR 1005.36(d)(2) and other applicable provisions in subpart B are satisfied (staff commentary 1005.36(d)–1).

If any of the information provided in these disclosures change, the provider must provide an updated disclosure with the revised information that is accurate as of when the transfer is made (12 CFR 1005.36(d)(1) and (4) and staff commentaries 1005.36(d)–2, 3, and 4).

For any subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer, the future date of transfer must be provided on any receipt provided for the initial transfer in that series of preauthorized remittance transfers. If the provider discloses the dates of subsequent preauthorized remittance transfers and the applicable cancellation period on either the receipt provided when payment is made or on a second receipt, the disclosure must be phrased and formatted in such a way that it is clear to the sender which cancellation period is applicable to any date of transfer on the receipt (staff commentaries 1005.31(b)(2)–4 and 5).

Sections Applicable to Both Subpart A and Subpart B

Preemption

The EFTA and Regulation E preempt inconsistent state laws but only to the extent of the inconsistency. The CFPB is given the authority to determine whether or not a state law is inconsistent. An entity, state, or other interested party may request the CFPB to make such a determination. A state law will not be deemed inconsistent if it is more protective of the consumer than the EFTA or Regulation E. Upon application, the CFPB has the authority to exempt any state from the requirements of the EFTA or the regulation for any class of EFTs within a state, with the exception of the civil liability provision (EFTA section 922 and 12 CFR 1005.12(b) and (c)).

Administrative Enforcement and Record Retention (12 CFR 1005.13)

Section 918 of the EFTA sets forth the federal agencies responsible for enforcing compliance with the provisions of the law and its implementing regulation.

Record retention. Any person subject to the EFTA and Regulation E must maintain evidence of compliance with the EFTA and Regulation E for at least two years from the date the disclosures are required to be made or action is required to be taken. The agency supervising the person may extend this period. The period may also be extended if the person is subject to an action filed under sections 910, 916, or 917(a) of the EFTA, which generally apply to the person's liability under the EFTA and Regulation E. Persons subject to the EFTA who have actual notice that they are being investigated or subject to an enforcement proceeding must retain records until final disposition of the matter (12 CFR 1005.13(b) and 12 CFR 1005.33(g)(2)).

Although it is not a requirement of EFTA or Regulation E, records may be stored on microfiche, microfilm, magnetic tape, or in any other manner capable of accurately retaining and reproducing the information.

Miscellaneous

The EFTA contains several additional provisions that are not directly reflected in the language of Regulation E. Most significantly, 15 USC 1693l provides that the consumer may not waive by agreement any right conferred, or cause of action created, by the EFTA (staff commentary 1005.6(b)-3). The consumer and another person, however, may provide by agreement greater consumer protections or additional rights or remedies than those provided by the EFTA (12 CFR 1005.6(b)(6)). In addition, the consumer may sign a waiver in settlement of a dispute.

If a third-party payee has agreed to accept payment by EFT, the consumer's obligation to pay is suspended during any period in which a system malfunction prevents an EFT from occurring (15 USC 1693j). The payee may avoid that suspension, however, by making a written request for payment by means other than EFT.

Failure to comply with the requirements of the EFTA can result in civil and criminal liability, as outlined in 15 USC 1693m and 15 USC 1693n. Financial institutions may also be liable for damages under 15 USC 1693h due to failure to complete an EFT or failure to stop a preauthorized transfer when instructed to do so.

Examination Procedures

This booklet contains objectives and expanded procedures for examining compliance with the EFTA regulation. Examiners decide which of these objectives and procedures are relevant to the scope of the examination during examination planning or after drawing preliminary conclusions during the compliance core assessment as outlined in the “Community Bank Supervision,” “Large Bank Supervision,” or “Federal Branches and Agencies Supervision” booklet of the Comptroller’s Handbook.

Objective: To determine whether the bank has policies and procedures designed to assure compliance with the EFTA regulation.

Review the adequacy of the bank’s policies and procedures by using the EFTA Worksheet.

Objective: To determine the bank’s level of compliance with the EFTA regulation.

Determine the bank’s level of compliance by using the EFTA Worksheet.

EFTA Worksheet

This worksheet can be used to review audit work papers and/or line of business compliance testing work papers, evaluate bank policies, perform transaction testing, and evaluate training as appropriate. Complete only those aspects of the checklist that specifically relate to the issue being reviewed, evaluated, or tested, and retain those completed sections in the work papers.

When reviewing audit or evaluating bank policies, a “no” answer indicates a possible exception/deficiency and should be explained in the work papers. When performing transaction testing, a “no” answer indicates a possible violation and should be explained in the work papers. If a line item is not applicable within the area you are reviewing, indicate “NA.”

12 CFR 1005.8 – Change-in-Terms Notice; Error Resolution Notice
19.	If the financial institution made any changes in terms or conditions required to be disclosed under section 1005.7(b) that would result in increased fees, increased liability, fewer types of available EFTs, or stricter limits on the frequency or dollar amount of transfers, did the financial institution provide a written notice to consumers at least 21 days prior to the effective date of such change? (12 CFR 1005.8(a))
20.	Does the financial institution provide either the long form error resolution notice at least once every calendar year or the short form error resolution notice on each periodic statement? (12 CFR 1005.8(b))
12 CFR 1005.9 – Receipts at Electronic Terminals; Periodic Statements
21.	Does the financial institution make receipts available to the consumer at the time the consumer initiates an EFT at an electronic terminal? (Note: The financial institution is exempt from this requirement for EFTs of $15 or less.) (12 CFR 1005.9(a) and (e))
22.	Do the receipts contain all of the following information, as applicable:
	• The amount of the transfer? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(1))
	• The date the transfer was initiated? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(2))
	• The type of transfer and the type of account to or from which funds were transferred? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(3))
	• A number or code that identifies the consumer's account or the access device used to initiate the transfer? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(4))
	• The terminal location where the transfer is initiated? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(5))
	• The name or other identifying information of any third party to or from whom funds are transferred? (12 CFR 1005.9(a)(6))
23.	Does the financial institution send a periodic statement for each monthly cycle in which an EFT has occurred? If no EFT occurred, does the financial institution send a periodic statement at least quarterly? (12 CFR 1005.9(b))
24.	Does the periodic statement contain all of the following information, as applicable:
	• Transaction information for each EFT occurring during the cycle, including the – amount of transfer; (12 CFR 1005.9(b)(1)(i))
	– date of transfer; (12 CFR 1005.9(b)(1)(ii))
	– type of transfer; (12 CFR 1005.9(b)(1)(iii))

12 CFR 1005.10 – Preauthorized Transfers
25.	If a consumer's account is to be credited by a preauthorized EFT from the same payor at least once every 60 days (and the payor does not already provide notice to the consumer that the transfer has been initiated) (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(2)), does the financial institution do one of the following:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provide oral or written notice, within two business days, after the transfer occurs? (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(1)(i))
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provide oral or written notice, within two business days after the transfer was scheduled to occur, that the transfer did or did not occur? (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(1)(ii))
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Provide a readily available telephone line that the consumer can call to determine if the transfer occurred and that telephone number is disclosed on the initial disclosure of account terms and on each periodic statement? (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(1)(iii))
26.	Does the financial institution credit the amount of a preauthorized transfer as of the date the funds for the transfer are received? (12 CFR 1005.10(a)(3))
27.	Does the financial institution ensure that an authorization is obtained for preauthorized transfers from a consumer's account by a written, signed or similarly authenticated authorization, and is a copy of the authorization provided to the consumer? (12 CFR 1005.10(b))
28.	Does the financial institution allow the consumer to stop payment on a preauthorized EFT by oral or written notice at least three business days before the scheduled date of the transfer? (12 CFR 1005.10(c)(1))
29.	If the financial institution requires that the consumer give written confirmation of an oral stop payment order within 14 days, does the financial institution inform the consumer, at the time the consumer gives oral notification, of the requirement and provide the address where he or she must send the written confirmation? Note: An oral stop payment order ceases to be binding after 14 days if the consumer fails to provide the required written confirmation. (12 CFR 1005.10(c)(2))
30.	Does the financial institution inform, or ensure that third-party payees inform the consumer of the right to receive notice of all varying transfers; OR Does the financial institution give the consumer the option of receiving notice only when a transfer falls outside a specified range of amounts or differs from the most recent transfer by an agreed-upon amount? (12 CFR 1005.10(d)(2))
31.	If the financial institution or third-party payee is obligated to send the consumer written notice of the EFT of a varying amount, does the financial institution ensure that the notice satisfies the following conditions:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The notice contains the amount and date of transfer? (12 CFR 1005.10(d)(1))
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The notice is sent at least 10 days before the scheduled date of transfer? (12 CFR 1005.10(d)(1))
32.	Does the financial institution not condition an extension of credit to a consumer on the repayment of loans by preauthorized EFT, except for credit extended under an overdraft credit plan or extended to maintain a specified minimum balance in the consumer's account? (12 CFR 1005.10(e)(1))

EFTA Worksheet		Yes	No	NA
33.	Does the financial institution not require a consumer to establish an account for EFTs with a particular institution as a condition of employment or receipt of government benefits? (12 CFR 1005.10(e)(2))

12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3) – Combined Disclosure
Complete this section if the provider provides combined disclosures as an alternative to prepayment disclosures and receipts.
91.	Does the combined disclosure contain all the information required to be provided on the prepayment disclosure and receipt? (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3)(i))
92.	Does the provider provide the combined disclosure when the sender requests the remittance transfer, but prior to payment for the transfer; and provide a proof of payment when payment is made for the transfer? (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3)(i) and (ii)) Note: A. The proof of payment must be clear and conspicuous, provided in writing or electronically, and provided in a retainable form. B. For one-time transfers scheduled five or more business days in advance or for the first in a series of preauthorized transfers, the provider may provide confirmation that the transaction has been scheduled in lieu of the proof of payment if payment is not processed at the time the remittance transfer is scheduled. No further proof of payment is required when payment is later processed.
12 CFR 1005.31(b)(4) – Long Form Error Resolution and Cancellation Notice
93.	Does the provider promptly provide, at the sender's request, a notice describing the sender's error resolution and cancellation rights, using language set forth in Model Form A-36 of appendix A or substantially similar language? (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(4)) Note: For a remittance transfer scheduled at least three business days before the date of the transfer, the description of the rights of the sender regarding cancellation must instead reflect the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.36(c).
12 CFR 1005.32 – Estimates
12 CFR 1005.32(a) – Temporary Exception for Insured Institutions
94.	If the remittance transfer provider is an insured institution (as defined by 12 CFR 1005.32(a)(3)), does the institution use estimates in its disclosures for transactions sent from the sender's account with the institution? (12 CFR 1005.32(a)(1)(iii))
95.	If so, is the financial institution unable to determine the exact amounts for reasons beyond its control because a person other than the institution or with which the institution has a correspondent relationship sets the exchange rate required to be disclosed or imposes a fee required to be disclosed? (12 CFR 1005.32(a)(1)(i)) and staff commentary 32(a)(1)–1)

EFTA Worksheet		Yes	No	NA
12 CFR 1005.32(b)(1) – Permanent Exception for Transfers to Certain Countries
96.	Does the provider appropriately rely on the list provided by the CFPB when using estimates under the permanent exception for transactions to countries in which the laws of the country do not allow a determination of exact amounts? (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(1)(i)(A) and (b)(1)(ii))
97.	If the provider provides estimates for transactions in a country which does not appear on the safe harbor list published by the CFPB, does the entity appropriately determine that the laws of or the method by which transactions are conducted in the recipient country do not permit the determination of exact amounts? (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(1)(i)(B) and staff commentary 1005.32(b)–5) Note: A provider cannot rely on the CFPB list if it has information that the laws of a country on the list permit exact disclosures.
12 CFR 1005.32(b)(2) – Permanent Exception for Transfers Scheduled Before the Date of Transfer
98.	For transfers scheduled five or more business days before the date of the transfer for which estimates may be provided, does the provider comply with the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.32(b)(2)?
12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3) – Permanent Exception for Optional Disclosure of Non-covered Third-Party Fees and Taxes Collected by a Third Party
99.	If the provider includes in the disclaimer statement required by 12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1)(viii), an optional estimated disclosure of applicable non-covered third-party fees or taxes, are the estimates based on reasonable sources? (12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3))
12 CFR 1005.32(c) – Bases for Estimates
100.	Are the bases used to derive the estimates under 12 CFR 1005.32(a), (b)(1) and (b)(2) in compliance with the method for disclosing estimates set forth in 12 CFR 1005.32(c)? Note: For transfers scheduled five or more business days before the date of the transfer for which estimates may be provided, the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.32(d) apply.
101.	Does the provider use the approaches listed in the rule to estimate the following:
	• Exchange rate; (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(1))
	• Transfer amount in which funds will be received; (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(2))
	• Covered third-party fees; and (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(3))
	• The amount of currency that will be received by the designated recipient? (12 CFR 1005.32(c)(4))
102.	If estimates are based on an approach that is not one of the listed bases, does the designated recipient receive the same, or greater, amount of funds than the remittance transfer provider disclosed? (12 CFR 1005.32(c))

12 CFR 1005.33 – Procedures for Resolving Errors
103. Does the provider have adequate policies and procedures to address the error resolution requirements applicable to remittance transfers? (12 CFR 1005.33(g))
104. Do the policies and procedures adequately state what constitutes an error and what does not as defined in 12 CFR 1005.33(a)?
105. Do the policies and procedures specifically address
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • timing and content of the sender's notice of error; (12 CFR 1005.33(b)(1))
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • timing when a sender's notice of error is based on additional documentation, additional information, or clarification that the sender previously requested from the provider; (12 CFR 1005.33(b)(2))
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • time limits for investigation, reporting results, and correcting an error; (12 CFR 1005.33(c))

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the retention of records related to error investigations? (12 CFR 1005.33(g)(2) and 12 CFR 1005.13)
106. Does the provider complete its investigation of alleged errors and determine whether an error occurred within 90 days of receiving notice of the error? (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(1))
107. Does the provider report investigation results to the sender within three business days after completing its investigation and include notice of any remedies available for correcting any error determined to have occurred and provide remedy within one business day? (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(1) and (2)) Note: The provider can ask the sender to designate a preferred remedy at the time the sender provides notice of the error but must indicate that a resend remedy may be unavailable if the error occurred because the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information.
108. If the sender provided an incorrect account number or recipient institution identifier, does the provider comply with the requirements of 12 CFR 1005.33(h) in determining that the exception applies? (see also 12 CFR 1005.33(a)(1)(iv)(D))
109. If the provider determines that no error or a different error occurred, does it provide a written explanation of the findings and note the sender's right to request the documents upon which the provider relied in making its determination? (12 CFR 1005.33(d))
110. If the provider provides a default remedy, does it correct the error within one business day or as soon as reasonably practicable, after the reasonable time (deemed to be 10 business days) for the sender to designate the remedy has passed? (staff commentary 1005.33(c)-4) Note: A default remedy is not applicable when the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information.
111. If the sender requests a refund (for errors other than those related to failure to deliver by the disclosed date when the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information), does the provider refund within one business day or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter? (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)) Note: The provider may generally, at its discretion, issue a refund either in cash or in the same form of payment that was initially provided by the sender for the remittance transfer.

112. If the sender requests delivery of the amount appropriate to correct the error and the error did not occur because the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information, does the provider correct the error within one business day, or as soon as reasonably practicable, applying the same exchange rate, fees, and taxes stated in the disclosure provided in connection with the unsuccessful remittance transfer attempt? (12 CFR 1005.33(c) and staff commentary 1005.33(c)-3)
113. In the case of errors involving incorrect or insufficient information provided by the sender for the transfer, does the provider provide the requested documentation, information, or clarification, as required by 12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(iii)?
114. If the provider determines that an error occurred that relates to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • an incorrect amount paid by the sender; or • a computational or bookkeeping error made by the remittance transfer provider; or • failure to make the amount of currency stated in the disclosures available to the designated recipient, does the provider either <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • refund the amount of funds provided by the sender (in case of a transaction that was not properly transmitted); or • refund the amount appropriate to resolve the error; or • make available to the designated recipient, the amount appropriate to resolve the error without additional cost to the sender or the designated recipient? (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(i))
115. If the error relates to the failure to make funds available to the designated recipient by the disclosed date of availability (except in cases when the sender provided incorrect or insufficient information), does the provider <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • either (i) refund the amount of funds that was not properly transmitted, or the amount appropriate to resolve the error to the sender; or (ii) make available to the designated recipient the amount appropriate to resolve the error; and • refund to the sender any fees and, to the extent not prohibited by law, taxes imposed for the remittance transfer? (12 CFR 1005.33(c)(2)(ii))
116. If an error occurred, does the provider decline to impose a charge related to any aspect of the error resolution process (including charges for documentation or investigation)? (12 CFR 1005.33(c) and staff commentary 1005.33(c)-9)
117. Does the provider retain policies and procedures and documentation, including those related to error investigations, for a period of not less than two years from the date a notice of error was submitted to the provider or action was required to be taken by the provider? 12 CFR 1005.34 – Procedures for Cancellation and Refund of Remittance Transfers
118. Does the provider comply with any oral or written request to cancel a remittance transfer (except for transfers scheduled three or more business days before the date of transfer) from the sender that is received no later than 30 minutes after the sender makes payment in connection with the remittance transfer? (12 CFR 1005.34(a)) Note: The request to cancel must enable the provider to identify the sender's name and address or telephone number and the particular transfer to be canceled; and the transferred funds must not have been picked up by the designated recipient or deposited into an account of the designated recipient (12 CFR 1005.34(a)(1) and (2)).
119. If a sender provides a timely request to cancel a remittance transfer, does the provider refund all funds provided by the sender in connection with the remittance transfer at no additional cost to the sender, within three business days of receiving the request? (12 CFR 1005.34(b)) Note: The funds to be refunded include any fees and, to the extent not prohibited by law, taxes that have been imposed for the transfer, whether the fee or tax was assessed by the provider or a third party, such as an intermediary institution, the agent or bank in the recipient country, or a state or other governmental body. (12 CFR 1005.34(b))
12 CFR 1005.35 – Acts of Agents
120. Has the provider established and maintained policies or procedures, including policies or procedures for compliance, or other appropriate oversight measures designed to assure compliance by an agent or authorized delegate acting for such provider? Note: The provider is liable for any violation of the remittance transfer rules by an agent when the agent acts for the provider. (12 CFR 1005.35) Consider
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the degree of control the agent exercises over the remittance transfer activities performed on the provider's behalf;
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the quality and frequency of training provided to ensure that agents are aware of the regulatory requirements and the provider's internal policy guidelines; and
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the adequacy of the provider's oversight of agents' activities.
12 CFR 1005.36 – Transfers Scheduled Before the Date of Transfer
121. For one-time transfers scheduled five or more business days in advance or for the first in a series of preauthorized remittance transfers, does the provider provide either a prepayment disclosure and a receipt or a combined disclosure at the time the sender requests the transfer but prior to payment? (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(1)(i)) Note: If any of the disclosures provided contain estimates, the provider must mail or deliver an additional receipt no later than one business day after the date of the transfer. If the transfer involves the transfer of funds from the sender's account held by the provider, this additional receipt may be provided on or with the next periodic statement for that account, or within 30 days after the date of the transfer if a periodic statement is not provided. (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(1)(ii))

EFTA Worksheet	Yes	No	NA
122. For each subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer, does the provider provide an updated receipt if any of the information (other than temporal disclosures or disclosures that are permitted to be estimated) on the most recent receipt is no longer accurate? (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(i)) Note: The receipt must clearly and conspicuously indicate that it contains updated disclosures and must be mailed or delivered to the sender within a reasonable time prior to the scheduled date of the next subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer. A disclosure that is mailed no later than 10 business days before the scheduled date of the transfer or hand or electronically delivered no later than five business days before such date is deemed to have been provided within a reasonable time. (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(i) and staff commentary 1005.36(a)(2)–3)
123. If there is no updated information and the remittance transfer does not involve the transfer of funds from the sender's account held by the provider, does the provider mail or deliver to the sender a receipt no later than one business day after the date of the transfer for each subsequent preauthorized transfer? (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(ii))
124. If there is no updated information and the remittance transfer involves the transfer of funds from the sender's account held by the provider, is the receipt provided on or with the next periodic statement for that account, or within 30 days after the date of the transfer if a periodic statement is not provided? (12 CFR 1005.36(a)(2)(ii))
125. For any subsequent transfer in a series of preauthorized remittance transfers, does the provider disclose the date of the subsequent transfer using the term "Future Transfer Date" or a substantially similar term, a statement of the sender's cancellation rights, and the name, telephone number(s), and Web site of the remittance transfer provider no more than 12 months, and no less than five business days prior to, the date of the subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer? (12 CFR 1005.36(d)) Note: While the rule generally provides flexibility as to when and where future transfer dates may be disclosed, for any subsequent preauthorized remittance transfer for which the date of transfer is four or fewer business days after the date payment is made, the disclosure must generally be provided on or with the receipt for the initial transfer in that series. (12 CFR 1005.36(d)(2)(ii))
126. Does the provider comply with any oral or written request to cancel any remittance transfer scheduled by the sender at least three business days before the date of the remittance transfer? (12 CFR 1005.36(c)) Note: The request to cancel must <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • enable the provider to identify the sender's name and address or telephone number and the particular transfer to be cancelled; and • be received by the provider at least three business days before the scheduled date of the remittance transfer. Conclusions

Conclusion: The aggregate level of compliance risk is (low, moderate, or high).
The direction of compliance risk is (increasing, stable, or decreasing).

Objective: To determine, document, and communicate overall findings and conclusions regarding the examination of compliance with the EFTA regulation.

1. Determine preliminary examination findings and conclusions and discuss with the EIC, including
 - quantity of compliance risk.
 - quality of risk management.
 - aggregate level and direction of compliance risk.
 - overall risk posed by the EFTA regulation.
 - violations and other concerns.
2. Discuss examination findings with bank management, including violations, recommendations, and conclusions about risks and risk management practices. If necessary, obtain commitments for corrective action.
3. Compose conclusion comments, highlighting any issues that should be included in the report of examination. If necessary, compose a Matters Requiring Attention (MRA) comment.
4. Provide final examination findings and conclusions to the EIC.
5. Update the OCC's information system and any applicable report of examination schedules or tables.
6. Write a memorandum specifically setting out what the OCC should do in the future to effectively supervise compliance with the EFTA regulation, including time periods, staffing, and workdays required.
7. Update, organize, and reference work papers in accordance with OCC policy.
8. Ensure any paper or electronic media that contain sensitive bank or customer information are appropriately disposed of or secured.

Appendix A: Model Disclosure Clauses and Forms

Model disclosure clauses and forms—12 CFR 1005, appendix A

Appendix A of Regulation E contains model clauses and forms that entities may use to comply with the disclosure requirements of Regulation E. Use of the model forms is optional, and an entity may make certain changes to the language or format of the model forms without losing the protection from civil and criminal liability under sections 915 and 916 of the EFTA. The model forms are:

For Subpart A:

- A-1 Model Clauses for Unsolicited Issuance (12 CFR 1005.5(b)(2))
- A-2 Model Clauses for Initial Disclosures (12 CFR 1005.7(b))
- A-3 Model Forms for Error Resolution Notice (12 CFR 1005.7(b)(10) and 12 CFR 1005.8(b))
- A-4 Model Form for Service-Providing Institutions (12 CFR 1005.14(b)(1)(ii))
- A-5 Model Forms for Government Agencies (12 CFR 1005.15(d)(1) and(2))
- A-6 Model Clauses for Authorizing One-Time Electronic Fund Transfers Using Information From a Check (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(2))
- A-7 Model Clauses for Financial Institutions Offering Payroll Card Accounts (12 CFR 1005.18(c))
- A-8 Model Clause for Electronic Collection of Returned Item Fees (12 CFR 1005.3(b)(3))
- A-9 Model Consent Form for Overdraft Services (12 CFR 1005.17)

For Subpart B:

- A-30(a) Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency, including a disclaimer when non-covered third-party fees and foreign taxes may apply (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1))
- A-30(b) Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency, including a disclaimer with estimate for non-covered third-party fees (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1) and 12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3))
- A-30(c) Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency, including a disclaimer with estimate for foreign taxes (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1) and 12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3))
- A-30(d) Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency, including a disclaimer with estimates for non-covered third-party fees and foreign taxes (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1) and 12 CFR 1005.32(b)(3))
- A-31 Model Form for Receipts for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(2))

- A-32 Model Form for Combined Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3))
- A-33 Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Dollar-to-Dollar Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1))
- A-34 Model Form for Receipts for Dollar-to-Dollar Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(2))
- A-35 Model Form for Combined Disclosures for Dollar-to-Dollar Remittance Transfers (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3))
- A-36 Model Form for Error Resolution and Cancellation Disclosures (Long) (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(4))
- A-37 Model Form for Error Resolution and Cancellation Disclosures (Short) (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(2)(iv) and (b)(2)(vi))
- A-38 Model Form for Pre-Payment Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency—Spanish (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(1))
- A-39 Model Form for Receipts for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency—Spanish (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(2))
- A-40 Model Form for Combined Disclosures for Remittance Transfers Exchanged Into Local Currency—Spanish (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(3))
- A-41 Model Form for Error Resolution and Cancellation Disclosures (Long)—Spanish (12 CFR 1005.31(b)(4))
